Summary

At its 2018 resumed session, held from 21 to 30 May, and 11 June 2018, the Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations had before it 472 applications for consultative status, including 244 applications deferred from earlier sessions. Of the non-governmental organizations submitting those applications, the Committee recommended 209 for consultative status, deferred 233 for further consideration at its regular session in 2019 and closed without prejudice consideration of 27 applications of non-governmental organizations that had failed to respond to queries over two consecutive sessions of the Committee. The Committee also had before it eight requests for reclassification of consultative status, including five requests deferred from earlier sessions: it recommended granting four of the requests and deferred consideration of four. The Committee also had before it two requests for merger, including one request deferred from previous sessions: it took note of one request of merger and deferred one for further consideration. The Committee considered 10 requests for a change of name, including four deferred requests for a change of name, it took note of all 10 requests. It also had before it 204 new quadrennial reports, of which it took note of 196. The Committee heard 21 representatives of the non-governmental organizations that attended the session.

* E/2018/XXX.
The present report contains eight draft decisions on matters calling for action by the Economic and Social Council.

By draft decision I, the Council would:

(a) Grant special consultative status to 209 non-governmental organizations;
(b) Reclassify four non-governmental organizations from the special to general consultative status;
(c) Not to grant consultative status to one non-governmental organization;
(d) Note that the Committee decided to take note of the change of name of 10 non-governmental organizations;
(e) Note that the Committee took note of the quadrennial reports of 196 non-governmental organizations, including new and deferred reports;
(f) Close without prejudice consideration of the request for consultative status made by 27 non-governmental organizations after the organizations had failed to respond to queries over the course of two consecutive sessions of the Committee;
(g) Note the withdrawal of applications by two non-governmental organizations;

By draft decision II, the Council would take note of the merger of two organizations in consultative status and would grant consultative status to the newly formed entity;

By draft decision III, the Council would take note of the withdrawal of consultative status requested by three non-governmental organizations, due to their dissolution;

By draft decision IV, the Council would suspend, for a period of one year, the consultative status of 152 organizations with outstanding quadrennial reports;

By draft decision V, the Council would decide to reinstate the consultative status of 27 organizations that had submitted their outstanding quadrennial reports;

Draft decision VI

Having confirmed at its resumed session in May 2018 that the Secretariat had reminded non-governmental organizations having continued outstanding quadrennial reports of their reporting obligation and whose status had been suspended by the Economic and Social Council pursuant to Council decision 2016/236 of 25 July 2016, that it had advised them of the consequences of their further non-compliance after 1 May 2018 and that it had notified the permanent missions of the Member States in which the headquarters of such organizations are based of the final reminders, the Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations recommends to the Council the adoption of the following draft decision:

The Economic and Social Council decides, in accordance with its resolution 2008/4 of 21 July 2008, and recalling its decision 2016/236 of 25 July 2016, to withdraw immediately the consultative status of the 101 non-governmental organizations listed below, and requests the Secretary-General to advise the concerned organizations of this decision.

Applications closed without prejudice

6. At its 29th meeting, on 30 May, the Committee decided to close without prejudice consideration of the applications of 27 non-governmental organizations that had not responded to the Committee’s questions despite three reminders sent to the organizations (see chap. I, draft decision I (e))

Konrad Adenauer Stiftung e.V. (KAS)

7. At its 27th and 28th meetings on 29 May 2018, the Committee considered the application of the non-governmental organization Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung e.V (KAS).

8. The representative of the Russian Federation asked a question regarding the projects conducted by the NGO. The representative of Cuba stated that the organization had provided vague responses to the questions posed by the Committee and that it had failed to respond to some of the Committee’s questions. He proceeded to ask six questions regarding the activities carried out by the organization and its links to certain organizations and individuals.

9. The representative of Greece then requested the floor and expressed regret that the Committee would be compelled to vote on an organization that clearly fulfilled the criteria for consultative status as outlined in resolution 1996/31. He pointed out that the organization had more than 80 offices and was responsible for over 200 projects in more than 120 countries. He noted that the main objective of the organization was to contribute to important areas of the UN’s work including the implementation of the 2030 Agenda, UN peacekeeping and migration issues. He indicated that the organization had applied for consultative status in May 2016, and that it had consistently complied with all information requests from committee members, noting that the director of the Foundation’s office in New York had participated in the Question and Answer session of the Committee and responded to many questions to the satisfaction of most Committee members. He noted however, that it was apparent that there was no consensus within the Committee to recommend the organization for consultative status and called for a vote on the matter, pursuant to rule 59 of the ECOSOC rules of procedure. He added that his delegation would vote in favour of the motion to recommend that the organization be granted consultative status, appealed all members of the Committee to support the motion, adding that the attempts to discredit this organization were unsubstantiated and politically motivated.

10. The observer for Germany made a general statement in support of the organization. He asserted that the organization had worked tirelessly to respond to the Committee’s questions both orally and in written form. He cited a previous session of the Committee during which the organization had responded to fifteen questions from one delegation alone noting that after such careful scrutiny in its previous sessions, the Committee should have had sufficient information to recommend the organization for consultative status. He defended the organization stating that it was a professional and well-regarded organization that has been in existence since 1955.
11. He highlighted the organization’s presence in over 80 countries and its work on relevant issues such as civic education and the implementation of the 2030 Agenda stressing that it worked in close cooperation with governments, including those of certain members of the Committee. He expressed disappointment that some members of the Committee were obstructing the accreditation of an NGO that was seeking to work with the United Nations on the basis of the UN Charter. He maintained that the organization would add an important voice to the UN and that attempts to discredit it were misleading.

12. The observer for the European Union also made a general statement in support of the organization highlighting its broad geographical and thematic scope of activities. He pointed out that the organization had recently established an office in New York to facilitate its work with the United Nations on various pertinent issues. He recalled that the director of the organization’s office in New York had engaged with members of the Committee and responded to all their questions. He asserted his delegation’s strong belief that the NGO should have been recommended for consultative status and expressed regret that the Committee had failed to do so.

13. The representative of the United States, in a statement of explanation of vote before the vote, indicated that her delegation would vote in favour of the motion to recommend the organization for consultative status. She stated that the organization was well-known and highly regarded and noted that it was already cooperating with the United Nations on several important issues. She maintained that consultative status would enhance the organization’s work and its contribution to ECOSOC and the United Nations. She concluded that the organization met the criteria for consultative status set forth in ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 and urged other members of the Committee to support the motion put forward by Greece.

14. In a statement before the vote, the representative of the Russian Federation expressed disappointment about the unprecedented situation that a member of the Committee was demanding that an organization be recommended for consultative status without due consideration of its application. He argued that the organization’s application had been under consideration for only one year and that members of the Committee had not been given adequate opportunity to receive responses to their questions as required by ECOSOC resolution 1996/31. He maintained that the organization had to demonstrate its trustworthiness by responding to all the questions of the Committee and that consultative status should be granted independently of political support. He indicated therefore that his delegation would vote against the motion to recommend the organization for consultative status.

15. The representative of Cuba also made a statement before the vote. He noted that the organization’s application had been submitted to the NGO Committee in May 2017 and that it had only been under consideration for two sessions. He stated that the organization had provided vague and evasive responses to the questions posed by the Committee and that it had failed to respond to some questions. In this regard, he cited his delegation’s request for information regarding the activities of the organization in Latin America and the offices through which they are carried out. He stressed that Cuba, as a member of the Committee, had a right to ask questions in order to clarify the functioning and purposes of the organization to ensure its compliance with provisions of resolution 1996/31 and the UN Charter.
16. He expressed regret that a member of the Committee had sought to violate this right by preventing the organization from responding to his delegation’s legitimate questions. He went on to state that his delegation had examined the work of the organization and expressed its concern regarding the activities of its office in Mexico, which had stated one of its areas of work as "the democratic transition in Cuba".

17. He asserted that the declared purpose of the organization revealed a flagrant interference in the internal affairs of Cuba and an attempt to subvert the constitutional right of a member state in violation of the UN charter and ECOSOC resolution 1996/31. He further asserted that the organization’s office in Mexico provides funding for activities that are opposed to the political, economic and social system freely chosen by the Cuban people and added that it has supported radio broadcasts aimed at promoting campaigns to discredit Cuba. In addition, representatives of the organization had met in New York to discuss projects of alleged "humanitarian aid" for Latin America and specifically for Cuba, in support of the "internal opposition". He asserted that the director of the organization’s office in Mexico maintains relations with individuals who, with the support of a foreign power, promote political destabilization in Cuba and who are related to the notorious self-confessed terrorist Luis Posada Carriles, accountable for the in-flight bombing of a Cuban aircraft on October 6, 1976 with 73 people on board, for placing 45 kilograms of C-4 explosives in the Panama University amphitheater where 2000 students had gathered together to listen to the speech of the then Cuban President Fidel Castro, among other crimes. He further asserted that the organization’s office in Mexico organizes an annual event entitled "Democratic Cuba" in which it publishes a summary of libellous articles called "Changes in Cuba" and that it had recognized an individual involved in human trafficking activities as one of its key speakers. He reasoned that there were serious and legitimate concerns against recommending the organization for consultative status. He expressed concern at the attempt to force the Committee to make a decision and to prevent the organization from responding to the questions that had been raised. He reiterated that the questions posed by his delegation were in accordance with the due process and practice of the Committee. He concluded by stating that his delegation would vote against the recommendation to grant consultative status to the organization.

18. The Committee voted against the proposal by Greece to recommend the organization for consultative status by a roll-call vote of 10 to 5, with 2 abstentions. Of the 19 members of the Committee, 17 were present and voting. The voting was as follows:

In favour:

Greece, Israel, Turkey, United States of America, Uruguay

Against:

Burundi, China, Cuba, Iran (Islamic Republic of), Nicaragua, Pakistan, Russian Federation, South Africa, Sudan, Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of)

Abstaining:

Azerbaijan, India

Absent:
Guinea, Mauritania

19. Following the vote, the representative of the Islamic Republic of Iran expressed regret that the Committee had once again blocked the legitimate right of a member state to pose questions to an organization. He stated that it would be disappointing for ECOSOC to make a political decision on a technical issue and cautioned that the recurrence of the decision made by ECOSOC on 17 April 2018 would distance it from its core function and lead to its politicization. He called for fair treatment of all applications and respect for the principles of the UN Charter, in particular, the respect for equal sovereignty of member states, avoidance of double standards when dealing with applications, and the full implementation of ECOSOC resolution 1996/31.

20. The representative of South Africa expressed regret that the Committee had been compelled to vote and decide on the organization’s application. She reaffirmed her delegation’s support for civil society participation as well as the right of all members of the Committee to raise legitimate concerns through questions to any organization, adding that the organization also deserved an opportunity to respond to the questions raised by the Committee. She stated that her delegation believed that the Committee adheres strictly with the provisions of ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 and that it applies due diligence to every application seeking accreditation, without discrimination. She pointed out that Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung e.V (KAS) was only one among many organizations whose applications had been deferred pending its responses to pertinent and legitimate questions posed by the Committee and it was unclear why it had been isolated from the rest. She concluded that her delegation voted against the forced accreditation of the organization based on these principled reasons.

21. The representative of Pakistan also reaffirmed his delegation’s support for the participation of civil society in the work of the UN. He stressed that the Committee has a clear mandate and follows an established practice which includes respect for the right of Committee members to ask legitimate questions, application of due diligence to the applications before it and allowing adequate time for organizations to respond. He explained that his delegation had voted against the motion based on the principle that every member of the Committee has the right to ask questions.

B. New applications for consultative status and new requests for reclassification

22. The Committee considered item 3(b) of its agenda, New applications for consultative status and new requests for reclassification, at its 17th to 23rd meetings held from 21 May to 24 May 2018. The Committee considered a total of 228 new applications for consultative status.

Requests for reclassification

25. At its 24th meeting on 24th May, the Committee considered three new requests for reclassification contained in document E/C.2/2018/R.3/Add.1 and at its 28th meeting on 29th May it considered five requests deferred from its previous sessions contained in document E/C.2/2018/CRP.36. It decided to recommend reclassification for four organizations from the special to general consultative status (see chap.1, draft decision I, subpara (b)) and decided to defer its consideration of the applications for reclassification of status of the following organizations, pending the receipt of responses to questions posed by the Committee:

Institute of Noahide Code
International Campaign to Ban Landmines
International Transport Workers’ Federation
Widows for Peace through Democracy

26. In its consideration of the request for reclassification of the organization International Campaign to Ban Landmines, the Committee decided to consider the application of the organization as a request for a merger in its future sessions.

C. Request for a merger and other matters

Requests for mergers

27. At its 23rd meeting, on 24 May, the Committee considered one application for a merger of the Ship and Ocean Foundation, which was granted special consultative status in 2008, with the Sasagawa Peace Foundation, which was granted roster status in 1996, to form the Sasakawa Peace Foundation. The Committee took note of the merger and recommended to the Council that special consultative status be granted to the Sasakawa Peace Foundation.

Requests for a change of name

28. At its 23rd meeting, on 24 May, the Committee considered six new requests for a change of name by organizations in consultative status, as contained in document E/C.2/2018/CRP.39 and four requests for a name change, deferred from previous sessions as contained in document E/C.2/2018/CRP.40. It decided to take note of the change of name of all 10 organizations (see chap. I, draft decision I, subpara. (c))

Requests for withdrawal of consultative status

29. At its 29th meeting, on 30 May, the Committee took note of the request for withdrawal of consultative status by three non-governmental organizations (see chap. I, draft decision II).
III. Quadrennial reports submitted by non-governmental organizations in consultative status with the Council

A. Quadrennial reports submitted by non-governmental organizations in consultative status with the Council that had been deferred at the resumed session

30. Due to time constraints, the Committee did not review quadrennial deferred from its previous sessions. A total of 84 quadrennial reports submitted by the following 69 organizations were further deferred for consideration in its future sessions:

American Psychological Association (2012 – 2015)
Armenian Assembly of America (2007 – 2010)

B. Review of quadrennial reports submitted by non-governmental organizations in consultative status with the Council

31. At its 29th meeting, on 30 May, the Committee considered agenda item 4 (b), Review of quadrennial reports submitted by non-governmental organizations in consultative status with the Council. It had before it notes by the Secretary-General containing 204 new quadrennial reports (E/C.2/2018/Add. 3, E/C.2/2018/Add.4 and E/C.2/2018/2/CRP.45-CRP.57). The Committee took note of the quadrennial reports of 196 of the organizations (see chap. I, draft decision I, subpara. (d)). The Committee decided to defer consideration of the reports of the following organizations:

Canadian Environmental Network (2013 – 2016)
Inter-American Press Association (2013 – 2016)
International Federation for Home Economics (2013 – 2016)
Prince Sultan Bin Abdulaziz International Prize for Water (2013 – 2016)
WITNESS (2013 – 2016)
Young Women’s Christian Association (2013 - 2016)

IV. Strengthening of the Non-Governmental Organizations Branch of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat

32. At its 17th meeting, on 21 May, the Committee jointly considered agenda item 5, Strengthening of the Non-Governmental Organizations Branch of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, and agenda item 8, General voluntary trust fund in support of the United Nations Non-Governmental Organizations Informal Regional Network, and heard oral reports made by the Secretariat.

33. The Director of the Office for Intergovernmental Support and Coordination for Sustainable Development, Department of Economic and Social Affairs, highlighted that the adoption of the 2030 Agenda had led to the mobilization of civil society and heightened their interest in contributing to the work of the United Nations. She noted that there had been a 75% increase in the number of applications for consultative status received by the NGO Branch since 2014. Consequently, the workload of the Branch in processing new applications and quadrennial reports had been impacted, leading to a backlog in the submission of applications to the Committee. She stressed that there was a need to invest in new technologies to facilitate the work of the Branch and the Committee. She informed the Committee that the Secretariat was working towards the establishment of a new integrated platform to replace the current outdated systems used by the Branch including the Integrated Civil Society Organizations Systems (ICSO), the United Nations Civil Society Network (CSO Net) and Paperless and sought the Committee’s support for this endeavour.

34. The representative of Cuba welcomed the presentation on the work of the NGO Branch and noted the increase in the number of organizations seeking to contribute to the work of the United Nations since the adoption of the 2030 Agenda. He noted however that there was a disparity in the number of organizations with consultative status from the North compared to those from the South and stressed that it was important to increase the latter to ensure better results in the work of the United Nations. He further noted that the overall number of organizations recommended for consultative status by the Committee had increased proportionally to the number of applications received. He welcomed the increase in the number of quadrennial reports, as a positive indication of compliance by NGOs with ECOSOC Resolution 1996/31. While noting the effectiveness of the virtual platforms used by the NGO Branch to process NGO applications, he pointed out that there were no digital records of the Committee’s work prior to 2002 and urged the Secretariat to ensure that all the archival records of the Committee are accessible.

35. The representative of the Islamic Republic of Iran welcomed the work of the NGO Branch. He took note of the increasing workload of the Secretariat and the surge in the number of accredited organizations and expressed his delegation’s commitment to improving the working methods of the Committee and addressing the increased workload of the Secretariat. He underlined the importance of granting consultative status to genuine NGOs and noted that NGOs play an important role in the implementation of the 2030 Agenda. He urged the members of the Committee to refrain from politicising its work.

V. Review of the methods of work of the Committee: implementation of Council resolution 1996/31, including the process of accreditation of representatives of non-governmental organizations, and Council decision 1995/304

36. At its 17th meeting, held on 21 May 2018, the Committee took note of the requests submitted by eight non-governmental organizations in consultative status to be heard by the Council at its 2018 session, as contained in conference paper E/C.2/2018/CRP.41, as follows:

   - Citizens' Coalition for Economic Justice (Special, 1999)
   - International Development Information Organization- DevNet (Special, 2015)
   - International Federation for Family Development (General, 2011)
   - Legiao da Boa Vontade - Legion of Good Will (General, 1999)
   - Russian Academy of natural Sciences (General, 2002)
   - VAAGDHARA (Special, 2011)
   - Yakutia - Our Opinion (Special, 2012)
   - Youth Social Service Organization, Pulpally (Special, 2017)
VI. Consideration of special reports and complaints by Member States

37. At its 17 meeting, on 21 May 2018, the Committee took up agenda item 7, Consideration of special reports. The representative of the People’s Republic of China referred to a letter dated 17 May 2018 (see annex I) that had been circulated previously to members of the Committee and that contained a request for the withdrawal/revocation of status of the non-governmental organization, Society for Threatened Peoples (STP). He outlined the reasons for his request, stating that the organization had facilitated the participation of Mr. Dolkun Isa, an individual, designated as a terrorist by China, at the 17th Session of the United Nations Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues (UNPFII). He stated that the individual was the president of the World Uyghur Congress (WUC), the principal political organization of "East Turkistan Islamic Movement" (ETIM) which is on the UNSCR 1267 Sanctions Committee list. He added that the individual had carried out several terrorist activities in China and that in December 1995, he had claimed responsibility for planning a number of explosions in China. In addition, his organization was demanding for the so-called Xinjiang independence and the establishment of East Turkistan, which threatened the sovereignty and territorial integrity of China in contravention of the purposes and principles of UN Charter. He went on to state that during his participation at a meeting at the United Nations on 25 April, the individual who had received accreditation through the STP, declared that he was a representative of the WUC which does not have consultative status with ECOSOC, which was in violation of norms and procedures of UN. He requested that the organization be given an opportunity to respond to the concerns raised by his delegation in writing, for consideration by the Committee, as stipulated in ECOSOC resolution 1996/31.

38. In response to the statement made by China, the representative of the United States cited an excerpt from the Report of the Secretary-General, A/HRC/36/31 which indicated that, a Uyghur human rights activist and member of the Unrepresented Nations and Peoples Organization (UNPO), Mr. Dolkun Isa, who was attending the annual session of the Permanent Forum on Indigenous Peoples at the United Nations Headquarters in New York, had been escorted from the premises on 26 April 2017 following receipt of information from representatives of the People’s Republic of China alleging “security reasons” and had as a result been unable to participate in the Permanent Forum on Indigenous Peoples. She expressed concern about the letter circulated by the People’s Republic of China to the Committee and urged the Committee to refrain from engaging in an act of reprisal against an organization. She noted that Mr Dolkun Isa had been accredited by the UN to attend the meeting and requested for a briefing from the United Nations security office to determine if they had any security concerns about him. She further noted that Mr Dolkun Isa had received a visa to travel to the United States which would not have been done had there been any such concerns.

39. The observer for Germany defended the work of the organization, stating that it is registered in Germany as an independent human rights organization, that advocates for the rights of religious and ethnic minorities as well as indigenous communities. He stressed that the organization, which was granted consultative status with ECOSOC in 1993 had participated in various UN meetings and noted that Mr. Dolkun Isa, had been properly registered to participate in the UNPFII as one of its members.
40. He maintained that the long-standing allegations of terrorist activities or links to terrorist organizations, levelled against Mr Dolkun Isa, were unfounded and unsubstantiated. He reasoned that the UN security office would not have granted him access to UN premises if there were any valid security concerns about him and that evidence submitted by a member state against him had been found to be irrelevant. He also pointed out that an Interpol red notice lodged against the individual had been lifted in February 2018 after serious deliberations and stressed that Germany had no information that Mr Isa, a German citizen, posed a security threat. Recalling that a previous attempt to bar Mr Isa’s participation at the UFPII had been documented in the Secretary-General’s report on reprisals, he urged the Committee to reject the request to withdraw its consultative status.

41. The observer for the European Union echoed the concerns expressed by Germany regarding the proposal to revoke the consultative status of the STP. He questioned the precipitous manner in which the proposal had been made and the weight of the evidence provided to support it. He therefore urged the Committee to scrutinize the accusations levelled against the organization and to refrain from withdrawing the organization’s accreditation.

42. The representative of the Russian Federation noted that the concerns raised by China about the STP required serious consideration. He stressed that organizations in consultative status had a responsibility to observe the UN Charter and to comply with UN security requirements and not facilitate the participation of individuals engaged in terrorist activities in UN meetings under their umbrella.

43. The representatives of Pakistan, Cuba, and the Islamic Republic of Iran noted the serious nature of the allegations made against the organization and expressed support for the proposal made by China to request a response from the STP for the Committee’s consideration in compliance with the established procedures of the Committee. The representative of Israel welcomed the decision to give adequate time to the organization to respond to the allegations made against it.

44. The representative of China stressed that his delegation had complied with the rules and practices of the Committee in submitting its complaint against the STP. He reiterated that Mr Dolkun Isa had not only engaged in terrorist activities but he had also engaged in acts that undermined the territorial integrity and sovereignty of a member state and violated rules of the UN when attending a UN meeting, all of which provided adequate grounds to the request for the revocation of the consultative status of STP. He stressed that his delegations’ request was not act of reprisal but an effort to defend the purposes and principles of the UN, the maintenance of peace and security and the safety and security of the UN. He contended that the issuance of a US visa to Mr Isa and his German citizenship did not preclude him from posing a security risk. He reiterated that Mr Isa had committed terrorist acts in China before he left the country and urged the members of the Committee to await the response from the organization for the Committee’s consideration.
45. The representative of the United States recalled that ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 required that there be substantiated evidence before the consultative status of an organization is withdrawn. She stated that the United States had repeatedly requested for evidence from the People’s Republic of China regarding their longstanding allegations of terrorism levelled against Mr Dolkun Isa, similar to those submitted to the Committee, but stated that no evidence had been provided to substantiate their claims. She stressed that Mr. Isa, a German citizen in good standing, with no criminal record, had been issued with a 10-year multiple entry visa to the United States.

46. She maintained that the United States would not have permitted Mr. Isa such access if they considered him to be a terrorist who had committed the acts that he was accused of. Citing several reports of ill treatment of the Uyghur minority in China, she asserted that the request to withdraw the consultative status of STP was an act of reprisal against the organization because it had allowed an individual from a silenced community in China to speak up about the rights of that community at the United Nations. She maintained that the Committee should demand that China furnish evidence of its allegations and urged China to withdraw its request. The observer for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland cautioned the Committee against precipitous revocation of the consultative status of the organization.

47. The representative of China emphasized that his government protects the rights of all ethnic minorities including the Uyghur people and respects their religious freedom as well as their freedom of speech. He dismissed the media reports cited by the United States as biased and unfounded hearsay. He contended that People’s Republic of China had submitted evidence to support their allegations but it had been intentionally overlooked due to double standards. He reiterated that Mr Isa had engaged in criminal and terrorist activities in China and urged the Committee to await the response from the organization in line with the rules of procedures of the Committee.

48. At its 29th Meeting on 30 May, the Committee resumed the consideration of agenda item 7. The representative of China took the floor and recalled the Note Verbale dated 18 May 2018 and the statement made by his delegation at the 17th meeting of the Committee. He welcomed the written response submitted by the STP as requested by the Committee, in which the organization had committed to uphold the purposes and principles of the UN, respect the sovereignty and territorial integrity of China, abide by ECOSOC resolution 1996/31, expressed its unequivocal opposition to terrorism in all its forms and stated that it would refrain from appointing terrorists as its representative. He indicated that his delegation would no longer continue to seek the withdrawal of the consultative status of the organization at the current session of the Committee. He urged the organization to uphold its commitments and refrain from its past mistakes. He indicated that his delegation would continue to follow the activities of the organization at the United Nations including at the Human Rights Council and would take measures at the NGO Committee as appropriate.
VII. Provisional agenda and documentation of the 2019 session of the Committee

49. At its 29th meeting, on 30 May, the Committee considered item 9 of its agenda, Provisional agenda and documentation for the 2019 session of the Committee and had before it the draft provisional agenda for its 2019 session (E/C.2/2018/L.1).

50. At the same meeting, the Committee decided to recommend to the Council the following dates for the sessions in 2019: from 21 to 30 January and on 8 February for its 2019 regular session, and from 16 to 24 May and 14 June for its 2019 resumed session.

VIII. Organization of the session

A. Opening and duration of the session

51. The Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations held its 2018 resumed session from 21 to 30 May, and 11 June. The Committee held 14 meetings.

52. The session was opened by the Chair of the 2018 session of the Committee, Jorge Dotta (Uruguay).

53. At the 17th meeting, on 21 May, the Chair of the Committee made opening remarks and noted the high number of deferred applications before the Committee as a result of the Committee’s inability to conduct a second review of new and deferred applications in its regular session. He stressed that the increase in the Committee’s workload called for a more streamlined approach to its work and urged the members of the Committee to ensure that all applications were given adequate consideration by limiting the amount of time spent reviewing each application.

54. At the same meeting, the representative of the United States made a general statement expressing strong support to the work of civil society and faith-based organizations in the work of the UN. She welcomed the consultations scheduled to be held between the Committee and NGOs in consultative status on 22 June 2018 and urged the Committee to make them part of its regular practice in accordance with ECOSOC resolution 1996/31. She stressed that it was crucial for civil society to engage with the Committee and stated that attempts to restrict their participation violated the Committee’s mandate. She welcomed the decision by ECOSOC to grant consultative status to the U.S. Committee for Human Rights in North Korea and the Iran Human Rights Documentation Center during the ECOSOC Coordination and Management meeting in April 2018. She noted however, that the process for granting the two organizations consultative status, highlighted the Committee’s failure to effectively fulfil its mandate.

55. She underlined that the review of applications must be conducted under the framework of ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 and pointed out that some of the questions posed by the Committee to NGOs were not in line with the resolution adding that many qualified NGOs, notably those focused on human rights and humanitarian issues had been blocked from receiving consultative status. She expressed concern that NGOs that received any government funding were being labelled as government-organized non-governmental organizations or GONGOs, while actual GONGOs, organizations that operate at the direction of a member state’s authorities, have proliferated.

56. She reasoned that ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 did not prevent NGOs from receiving multiple sources of funding, including from government sources and stated that the Committee should instead be concerned by government control of organizations. She welcomed the increase in the number of NGO applications for consultative status which she stated was an indication of the significance and impact of consultative status for NGOs. She therefore urged the Committee to expedite the review of applications and welcomed the application of strict time limits as a means of ensuring that all applications are given due consideration. She appealed to present and future members of the Committee to make the UN more accessible for civil society and faith-based organizations, and to fulfil the mandate set out in resolution 1996/31.

57. The representative of the Islamic Republic of Iran, following the statement by the representative of the United States, said that ECOSOC’s 17 April 2018 session was a clear reflection of politicization and double standards. He noted that putting pressure on member states to disregard the provisions of ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 and the provisions of Charter of the United Nations is a disservice to the work of the NGO Committee for the sake of political ends that has nothing to do with civil society space. He expressed his disappointment with the statement made by the United States, which had nothing to do with civil society and the work of the Committee but rather reflected political interests of the United States.

58. The observer for the European Union emphasized the importance of effective and transparent functioning of the NGO Committee noting that it plays a crucial role in facilitating the participation of the civil society at the United Nations. He stressed that the role of the Committee was even more critical in light of numerous reports of increasing restrictions on civil society around the world. He welcomed the steps taken to increase the transparency of the Committee’s work including the webcasting of its sessions and the consultations scheduled to be held with NGOs in consultative status on 22 June 2018, in compliance with paragraph 61 (a) of ECOSOC resolution 1996/31. He encouraged the Committee to enhance its efforts in this regard by allowing civil society representatives to contribute to its meeting through general statements. He further urged the Committee to abide by the letter and spirit of ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 and to ensure that the full spectrum of NGO voices is heard at the UN.

59. The observer for Denmark highlighted the crucial role of the Committee in ensuring that the United Nations had access to advice and expertise from civil society. He stated that the active participation of NGOs was a vital element of an effective and functioning UN system and argued that it should not be construed as undermining the will of the Member States. While recognizing the need for careful consideration of NGO applications, he emphasized that the deliberations of the Committee must be conducted in a fair, transparent and effective manner and expressed serious concern regarding cases of multiple deferrals of NGO applications by the Committee. Pointing to the increasing reports of limitations, reprisals and intimidations against human rights defenders and civil society actors, he stressed that the UN must lead the efforts to defend NGOs and urged the Committee to fulfil its responsibilities in this regard.

60. The observer for Estonia stated that civil societies and non-governmental organisations are vital partners to governments in the international system and stressed that their involvement in the work of the United Nations is crucial. She recalled that the Secretary General has frequently affirmed the important role of the civil society organisations in helping the UN achieve its goals and urged the Committee on NGOs to explore ways of making its processes more accessible. She welcomed the consultations scheduled to be held between the Committee and NGOs in consultative status on 22 June 2018, as an important step in strengthening the framework of resolution 1996/31. She expressed strong support for NGOs dedicated to achieving the goals of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the right of NGOs in consultative status to address the Committee during its sessions. She further expressed support for the improvement of the working methods of the Committee on NGOs to ensure the fulfilment of its obligations. She underscored the contributions of NGOs to policy making processes and stressed that it was critical for the Committee to be effective and responsive in its decision-making in order to increase the number of accredited organizations. She also urged the Committee to defend and uphold the principles laid out in ECOSOC resolution 1996/31.

61. The observer for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland stated that his country’s position was fully aligned with the statement made by the observer for the European Union. She welcomed the Committee’s inaugural consultations with NGOs scheduled to take place on 22 June 2018 and expressed confidence that the important dialogue between civil society and the Committee would facilitate a fruitful exchange of views on the evolving relationship between the NGOs and the United Nations. She stressed the important role of civil society in informing the work of the United Nations. She underlined her delegation’s expectation that the members of the Committee would ensure that NGOs granted consultative status reflect the full spectrum of issues of concern to ECOSOC and the United Nations, including human rights issues. She expressed concern regarding apparent discrimination by the Committee, which she asserted had prevented some human rights NGOs from gaining accreditation in a timely and impartial manner. She stressed that the increasing workload of the Committee made its function of reviewing applications in an efficient, timely manner even more critical and expressed concern that the Committee had not had sufficient time to reconsider applications from NGOs that had responded to its questions at the regular session, thereby imposing an unfair delay on NGOs that had diligently responded to the Committee’s questions. She asserted that the members of the Committee have ample time before, during and after its formal sessions to review the applications and responses submitted by NGOs, and to prepare questions and should therefore be able to consider as many applications as possible during each session. She concluded by thanking the Chair for his efforts to ensure the smooth running of this Committee, and the efficient discharge of its duties noting that he embodied the mandate of the Committee to promote civil society participation at the UN.

62. The observer for Canada stated that the participation of civil society enhances the work of the United Nations and welcomed the consultations between the Committee and NGOs scheduled to be held on 22 June 2018. He highlighted the important contributions made by NGOs, including the provision of creative solutions, information and expertise, stressing that their diverse voices enrich discussions at the United Nations.

63. The observer for Australia also expressed support for the Committee’s work in ensuring broad based civil society participation in UN processes. Stressing the important role played by civil society through their expertise and diverse perspectives, she stated that their participation improved the effectiveness, transparency and legitimacy of the United Nations and urged the Committee to respect and support their significant contribution.

64. A representative from the non-governmental organisation, International Service for Human Rights, requested the floor to address the Committee on behalf of civil society.

65. The representative of China objected on a point of order, stating that the Committee was running out of time to deal with its agenda. He asserted that the interactive dialogue and consultations scheduled to be held between NGOs and the Committee on 22
June 2018 would be the appropriate forum for NGOs to actively engage with the Committee.

66. The representative of the Russian Federation similarly objected to the request and urged the Committee to adhere strictly to its agenda adding that the general statements should not be extended beyond observers as this would prevent the Committee from completing its program of work. He recalled that the Committee had scheduled consultations with NGOs on 22 June 2018 which would provide NGOs in consultative status an opportunity to address the Committee.

67. The representative of Uruguay affirmed her country’s steadfast support to the right of representatives of civil society to be heard at the meetings of the Committee. She stated that NGOs had a right to speak at the beginning of every session of the Committee recalling that the same NGO representative had addressed the Committee in 2017 on behalf of 200 organizations. She underlined, that as a member of the Accountability, Coherence and Transparency Group, (ACT), Uruguay advocates for accountability and transparency in all areas of work of the United Nations. She maintained that the participation of civil society would improve the Committee’s working methods and allow the Committee to hear the perspectives and expectations of NGOs. She stressed that the right of NGOs to be heard is supported by paragraph 32 of ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 and rule 84 of the ECOSOC rules of procedure and urged the Committee to uphold the right of civil society representatives to be heard in future meetings.

68. The representative of the United States reminded the Committee that it had voted in favour of granting NGOs with consultative status a speaking slot during its opening sessions in its 2017 regular session. She stressed that ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 grants NGOs in consultative status the right to address the Council and the Committee. She further recalled that the same NGO representative had been permitted to address the Committee in the past and urged the Committee to abide by the resolution and its commitments and to permit the representative of civil society to speak in line with its established practice.

69. The observer for Canada expressed disappointment that the NGO representative had been prevented from addressing the Committee. He urged the Committee to grant NGOs with consultative status an opportunity to be heard and to create a safe and enabling environment. The observer for Austria shared the concerns raised by Uruguay and noted that the consultations planned for 22 June 2018 should not prevent the Committee from hearing the NGO representative during its formal session. The observer for the United Kingdom of Britain and Northern Ireland also expressed regret that a representative from an accredited organization had been prevented from addressing the Committee after being given the floor, noting that this was against the established practice of the Committee.

70. The representative of Greece supported the statements made by Uruguay and the United States stating that NGOs in consultative status had a right to address the Committee. The representative of Israel also expressed support for the right of NGOs to be heard.

71. Following a request from the representative of Cuba, the Secretariat provided an update on the planning for the consultations scheduled to be held between the Committee and NGOs in consultative status on 22 June 2018 in accordance with paragraph 61 (a) ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 and responded to questions raised by several members of the Committee.
72. The representative of India recalled that the Committee had held informal consultations regarding the screening of NGO applications against the Consolidated United Nations Security Council Sanctions List on 17 May 2018, during which it had requested additional information from the Secretariat for its consideration. She, as well as the representative of Cuba, inquired whether additional information would be provided during the session to enable the Committee to take a decision on the matter. The representative of the Secretariat indicated that the information requested would involve consultations with different offices and could therefore not be available during the current session. He suggested that the matter continue to be discussed in an informal setting, with a view to formulating a draft decision or resolution on the matter thereafter.

73. At its 29th Meeting on 30 May 2018, the Chair delivered closing remarks in which he noted that the Committee had recommended 45% of the organizations that had submitted their applications for consultative status and that 55% of the applications had been deferred. He expressed concern that the Committee had not been able to conduct a second review of new and deferred applications as per established practice. He noted that the high number of deferred applications would increase the workload of the Committee for the 2019 regular session, thus creating an additional challenge for the Committee and its limited resources. He encouraged the Committee to explore ways of improving its working methods in order to streamline its work. He welcomed the consultations scheduled to be held between the Committee and NGOs in consultative status on 22 June 2018 in accordance with paragraph 61 (a) of ECOSOC resolution 1996/31.

74. The representative of Israel, thanked the Chair for his work and echoed his concerns regarding the increasing workload of the Committee. He noted however that the Committee had made significant progress in the past four years, noting in particular the ongoing discussions regarding the review of the Committee’s working methods, the webcasting of the Committee’s proceedings and the decision by the Committee to hold consultations with NGOs in consultative status.

75. The representative for Uruguay stressed the important role of the Committee in facilitating the participation of non-governmental organizations in the work of the United Nations in recommending them consultative status. He underlined that NGOs provide valuable perspectives to the UN and that they are crucial partners in important areas of the UN’s work, including in the implementation of the 2030 Agenda. He welcomed the progress made in the Committee’s work in the past four years, notably the webcasting of the Committee’s sessions. He expressed concern however, that the Committee had been unable to complete its program of work during the session and called for a review of its working methods to improve its functioning.

76. He further expressed concern regarding the permanent deferral of certain applications of organizations, which in the view of his delegation should have been recommended for consultative status, noting in particular that applications of NGOs working on sexual and reproductive rights and LGBTQ issues were constantly deferred by the Committee due to politicization. He echoed the Chair’s concern that the Committee had been unable to conduct a second review of new and deferred applications in both its 2018 regular and resumed sessions.
77. He stated that the webcasting of the Committee’s session was an important tool for enhancing the transparency of the Committee and encouraged the Secretariat to ensure that it was functional and accessible in all the official languages of the United Nations including the videos’ archives. He also welcomed the consultations between the Committee and NGOs in consultative status to be organized in compliance with ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 and encouraged the Committee to support the partnership of civil society with the United Nations system.

78. The representative of the United States thanked the Chair for his efforts in promoting and strengthening the participation of civil society at the UN. She also welcomed the consultations between the Committee and NGOs in consultative status to be held in compliance with ECOSOC resolution 1996/31. She shared the concerns expressed by the Chair and other delegations regarding the Committee’s inability to complete its program of work and encouraged the Committee to increase the number of applications reviewed in its future sessions.

79. The representative of Cuba thanked the Chair for his dedication to the work of the Committee. He affirmed his delegation’s commitment to ensuring that all applications for consultative status were given careful consideration, noting that consultative status gives organizations a voice and enables them to contribute to the work of the United Nations. Noting the increased workload of the Committee, he encouraged the Secretariat to enhance coordination in planning the sessions of the Committee and to ensure that adequate time was allocated to prepare them.

80. The representative of Greece thanked the Chair for his work, noting the progress made by the Committee in the past four years. However, he stressed that there was a need to amend its working methods to ensure that it is effective in addressing its growing workload. He also expressed concern that the Committee had been unable to complete its program of work and to conduct a second review of new and deferred applications. He also welcomed the consultations between the Committee and NGOs in consultative status to be held on 22 June 2018.

B. Attendance

81. The session was attended by 18 members of the Committee. Observers for other States Members of the United Nations, observers for non-member States, representatives of organizations of the United Nations system and observers for non-governmental organizations also attended. The list of participants will be issued in document E/C.2/2018/INF/2.

82. At its 2018 resumed session, the Committee heard 21 representatives of non-governmental organizations, who were given the opportunity to respond to questions raised by the Committee. The additional information provided by the representatives facilitated the debate and the work of the Committee in taking its decisions.
C. Election of officers

83. The Bureau of the resumed session was constituted as follows: Mr. Jorge Dotta (Uruguay), Chair; Ms. Ceren Hande Özgür of Turkey (on behalf of the group of Western European and Other States) and Mr. Farid Jabrayilov of Azerbaijan (on behalf of the group of Eastern European States) as Vice-Chairs. Mr. Farid Jabrayilov of Azerbaijan was also designated to serve as Rapporteur.

86. At its 30th meeting, on 11 June 2018, the Committee adopted the present report.
ANNEX 1

Letter dated 17 May 2018 from the Permanent Mission of the People’s Republic of China to the United Nations addressed to Mr. Jorge Dotta, Chair of the United Nations Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations

The Permanent Mission of the People's Republic of China to the United Nations presents its compliments to the Chair of the Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations and has the honor to call its attention to an incident related to "Society for Threatened Peoples" (STP), an NGO with consultative status with the Economic and Social Council.

During the 17th session of the Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues (UNPFII) from 16 to 27 April 2018, a person named Dolkun Isa was accredited as a representative of STP in order to attend the meetings of UNPFII. Dolkun Isa has been participating, inciting and funding separatism and terrorism for years.

He currently serves as President of World Uyghur Congress (WUC), the principal political organization of "East Turkistan Islamic Movement" (ETIM) which is on the UN Security Council 1267 Committee list. WUC incited "East Turkestan" elements to plot and carry out a series of violent terrorist activities in Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region and other regions of China. WUC also conspires with international terrorist forces and organizes illegal smuggling of Chinese nationals to Syria for "Jihad", which not only gravely threatens the national security of China but also stimulates the spread of international terrorism. Dolkun Isa was determined by the Government of China as a terrorist in December 2003. He and WUC engaged in the so-called "Xinjiang Independence", which flagrantly infringe upon the national sovereignty and territorial integrity of China and gravely violate the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations.

The ECOSOC resolution 1996/31 is the resolution governing consultative relationship between the UN and NGOs. Article 55 of the resolution clearly stipulates that "organizations granted consultative status...shall conform at all times to the principles governing the establishment and nature of their consultative relations with the Council". Article 57 (a) provides specific circumstances under which the consultative status of NGOs shall be suspended up to three years or withdrawn, including "if an organization, either directly or through its affiliates or representatives acting on its behalf, clearly abuses its status by engaging in a pattern of acts contrary to the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations including unsubstantiated or politically motivated acts against Member States of the United Nations incompatible with those purposes and principles".

On 25 April 2018, Dolkun Isa was granted UN pass as a representative of STP and participated in the regional dialogues on North America of UNPFII that was held at Conference Room 6 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. He indicated during the meeting that he was representing WUC instead of STP. He also published a video shot in UN Headquarters on his Twitter, claiming himself as the President of WUC instead of a representative of STP. All the above actions seriously violates relevant rules and regulations of the United Nations.
In light of Dolkun Isa's terrorist and separatist activities against China and STP claiming Dolkun Isa as its representative through its accreditation to the UNPFII, the Permanent Mission of China strongly urges the Committee on the Non-Governmental Organizations to uphold the authority of the UN Chair and withdraw the consultative status of STP during its resumed session in May 2018, in accordance with the resolution 1996/31.

The Permanent Mission of China would highly appreciate if the present Note Verbale is circulated among Members of the Committee on the Non-Governmental Organizations for their careful consideration.

The Permanent Mission of the People's Republic of China to the United Nations avails itself of this opportunity to renew to the Chair and Members of the Committee on NGOs the assurances of its highest considerations.
