3. Summarize the aims and purposes of your organization.
Promo-LEX Association is a civil society organization whose purpose is to advance democracy in the Republic of Moldova through promoting and defending human rights, monitoring democratic processes and civil society strengthening.

Promo-LEX operates within its 3 Programs: Human Rights; Monitoring Democratic Processes; and Civil Society.

- Human Rights Program
The Overall Goal of the Program is to promote and implement international human rights standards in Moldova through advocacy activities. Under this Program, Promo-LEX provides legal protection of human rights in Moldova, including the Transnistrian region.

- Monitoring Democratic Processes Program
The overall aim of the program is to improve the quality and to increase citizen’s trust in democratic processes in Moldova.
1. Asociația Obsteasca "Promo-LEX"

- Civil Society Program
The overall goal of the program is to develop and strengthen the capacities of the Transnistrian region NGOs to promote human rights and democratic values.

4. a) Explain how you carry out these aims.
Promo-LEX' main methods of work are: pro bono legal assistance, strategic litigation before domestic and international courts, research, human rights monitoring, developing reports and studies, lobby, information dissemination, trainings, elections monitoring, public events, re-granting program, electronic newsletter, other.

4. b) Please give examples of recent projects and activities.
Projects:

1. Strengthening Legal Protection from and Raising Awareness of Discriminatory Ill-Treatment in the Republic of Moldova, including Transnistrian region;

2. Assessment of implementation of the Law 45-XVI on preventing and combating domestic violence in Moldova;

3. European Partnership Fair for Civil Society Organizations in Moldova;

Activities:

1. At a roundtable on March 19 2012, the Promo-LEX Association and The Equal Rights Trust released the Report „Discriminatory ill-treatment in Moldova”. The Report examines the specific phenomenon of discriminatory ill-treatment against women, persons with disabilities, LGBT, ethnic and religious minorities in Moldova.

2. At a roundtable on October 18, the Promo-LEX Association released the Human Rights in Moldova Report. The Report is at its 4th edition and it offers a picture of the human rights situation in the Republic of Moldova during 2009-2010;

3. On 4 December 2011 Promo-LEX Association became a founding member of the International Cooperation Platform “Civic Solidarity”. The Platform is based on such values as human rights and human dignity; non-violence and the culture of peace; and supremacy of human rights and freedoms over state interests. The Platform will build upon the achievements and traditions of the international Helsinki movement which for several decades played a key role in advancing the goals and principles of the Helsinki process.

4. On 25 January 2012 the Grand Chamber of the European Court of Human Rights heard the case of Catan and Ors 27 v Moldova and Russia, Caldară and Ors 42 v Moldova and Russia, Cercavschi and Ors 98 v Moldova and Russia. The applicants were represented by lawyers from Promo-LEX Association, who were assisted by lawyers from INTERIGHTS.

5. a) How do you intend to contribute to the work of ECOSOC and/or its subsidiary bodies?
Promo-LEX Association is the only Moldovan NGO that conducts human rights monitoring in the Transnistrian region. Promo-LEX also has great expertise in relation to gender-based violence and discrimination, liberty and security of persons, torture and ill-treatment and access to justice. Therefore Promo-LEX can contribute with reliable information and reports on the implementation of the UN Conventions in Moldova. It is important to mention that Promo-LEX human rights reports and findings are the main source of alternative and, in some cases the only information on human rights issues in the Transnistrian region. The strength of Promo-LEX is based on its large spectrum of services and activities from free legal assistance, trainings, litigation to advocacy and lobby - thus, Promo-LEX has first-hand information and data directly from its numerous beneficiaries. This allows Promo-LEX to have valuable information and relevant strategies to address problematic issues in its priority areas. To this end, Promo-LEX is also a valuable source of information for international community concerned of human rights in Moldova. On numerous occasions Promo-LEX provided information and cases to EU, UN, OSCE, CoE and Diplomatic Corps (Embassies) located in Moldova on various issues in human rights area. Thus, Promo-LEX could contribute to the work of ECOSOC by providing alternative information and reports on human rights in Moldova.

5. b) Please give details on planned activities and projects.
Till November 2013 Promo-LEX will continue to implement various activities under its Human Rights Program with the focus on its areas of concern: torture and ill-treatment, liberty and security of person, access to justice and gender-based violence and discrimination against women. Under this program Promo-LEX will carry out human rights monitoring activities, develop reports and studies on human rights issues, conduct trainings for civil society organizations, decision-makers and law-enforcement bodies, will conduct strategic litigation before domestic and international courts, as well as lobby with the focus on priority areas.

Program aims to contribute to:
- A greater awareness of human rights observance through a better documentation of violations and information dissemination;
- Increasing accountability of state actors towards their obligations to promote and protect human rights through strategic litigation, lobby, public discussions and dialogue between civil society and state institutions concerning human rights;
- Promoting international human rights standards and effective enforcement of national legislation and policies that safeguards the observance of human rights through various advocacy means.

It is expected to have the following outcomes:
• Increased application of international human right law standards domestically
• Increased understanding of standards in equality and non discrimination issues - especially in women’s human rights
• Increased successful litigation before domestic and international courts;
• Increased protection through litigation on identified issues and increased awareness of lawyers, NGOs and judges of developing standards on these issues;
• Identification and conduct of litigation on key standard setting issues regarding national and international human rights protection and in particular relating to investigations and prosecutions of perpetrators for breach of human rights;
• Progressive jurisprudence on focus issues both domestically and at the international level.

6. a) Has your organization participated in any UN-conference(s)?
If yes, explain in detail

3. Summarize the aims and purposes of your organization.
The mission of the INMP is to contribute to world peace by means of promoting and enhancing the work of museums, galleries and libraries working for peace (collectively called museums for peace). They will do so by fostering worldwide cooperation between museums for peace, in the broadest sense of the word and without any discrimination.

4. a) Explain how you carry out these aims.
The network aims to reach this mission by:
- creating links between peace museums, related institutions and individuals worldwide
- organising international conferences and other activities
- releasing publications in the form of books, articles and newsletters
- encouraging the exchange of information, material and exhibitions
- setting up joint exhibitions to spread know-how
- encouraging the creation of more peace museums in other parts of the world
4. b) Please give examples of recent projects and activities.
Past projects include International Conferences of Museums for Peace, with the most recent organized in May 2011 in Barcelona (Spain), and before that in 2008 (Japan), 2005 (Spain), 2003 (Belgium), 1998 (Japan), 1995 (Austria) and 1992 (U.K.). These conferences comprise presentations, workshops and field trips in 3-5 days. The participants arrive from countries all over the world, and vary with the venue from 60-200 people.
Other recent activities include the annual board meetings in The Hague, and two preparatory visits to Vienna for two separate projects in the near future.

5. a) How do you intend to contribute to the work of ECOSOC and/or its subsidiary bodies?
INMP has members from around the world, who will attend conferences and take an active role in those conferences. They design written statements on issues of importance, and contribute to the dialogue of the goals of ECOSOC.

5. b) Please give details on planned activities and projects.
In 2013 INMP is organizing an international conference, with exhibition and publication in The Hague, to celebrate the centenary of the Peace Palace.
In 2013 INMP will also commence with a 3-year European project for peace education in The Hague, in cooperation with seven other European cities, including Vienna
In 2014 the 8th International Conference of Museums for Peace will be organized by the INMP in No Gun Ri in South Korea.
Because of its office based in The Hague, and the annual board meetings held at the secretariat office, INMP holds strong plans to support the Yi Jun Peace Museum and the Peace Library to continue and grow in its existence, and to establish a Peace Museum/Bertha von Suttner Museum in The Hague.

6. a) Has your organization participated in any UN-conference(s)?
If yes, explain in detail
Yes, board members of the INMP represented the organisation at the annual NGO-DPI conferences, the UN UPR meeting, and conferences on religion, indigenous peoples and on gender and development.

6. b) Has your organization contributed to any areas with substantive UN concern and participated in any activities of the United Nations?
If yes, explain in detail
INMP board members Kazuyo Yamane and Joyce Apsel have presented workshops on peace education, peace museums and literacy at UN conferences on multiple occasions.
7. Would you broadly categorize your organization as a research organization, an advocacy/lobbying organization, a grass-roots project implementation organization or any other? Other. The INMP combines advocacy and peace education with networking, to realize the goals of peace, including an end to structural violence. Our members also educate about the history of peace movements.

Summarize the aims and purposes of your organization.
The mission of the INMP is to contribute to world peace by means of promoting and enhancing the work of museums, galleries and libraries working for peace (collectively called museums for peace). They will do so by fostering worldwide cooperation between museums for peace, in the broadest sense of the word and without any discrimination.

How do you intend to contribute to the work of ECOSOC and/or its subsidiary bodies?
INMP has members from around the world, who will attend conferences and take an active role in those conferences. They design written statements on issues of importance, and contribute to the dialogue of the goals of ECOSOC.

3. Summarize the aims and purposes of your organization.
GCCA envisions a low-carbon society that protects vital ecosystems and biological diversity and enables humanity to thrive while stabilizing the earth's climate at levels safe for humankind, in particular those living in poverty and vulnerable to climate change. To this end, GCCA partners work non-violently to create a global system of cooperation that empowers people and organizations to participate in decision-making that impacts them, acknowledges the equitable right to development of those living in poverty and where individuals, governments and companies take responsibility for creating a sustainable, just, and equitable world.

The GCCA is working to ensure that global CO2 emissions peak by 2015 and decline sharply thereafter, consistent with putting the world on a path to stabilize atmospheric CO2 concentrations at 350 ppm.

4. a) Explain how you carry out these aims.
Through the use of social media (Facebook Twitter, Blogs etc) to mobilise people both online and offline to take action to ensure that their governments are taking the necessary steps, both domestically and at the international level, to combat climate change.

4. b) Please give examples of recent projects and activities.
During COP15 in Copenhagen we were involved with the mass mobilisation of 100,000 who took to the streets to demand a Fair, Ambitious and Binding Treat in Copenhagen. Again in Cancun, for COP16, we facilitated the coming together of civil society to highlight the need to take action at the International Level.

3. Global Campaign for Climate Action

www.tcktcktck.org

www.adoptanegotiator.org

5. a) How do you intend to contribute to the work of ECOSOC and/or its subsidiary bodies?
We will participate in all relevant conferences such as the CSD and those fora that relate to climate change.

5. b) Please give details on planned activities and projects.
We are planning to work around the Earth Summit in Rio in 2012 and intend to have mobilisations planned around this event.

6. a) Has your organization participated in any UN-conference(s)?
If yes, explain in detail
We participate in the UNFCCC

6. b) Has your organization contributed to any areas with substantive UN concern and participated in any activities of the United Nations?
If yes, explain in detail
No

7. Would you broadly categorize your organization as a research organization, an advocacy/lobbying organization, a grass-roots project implementation organization or any other?
Advocacy/lobbying organization. We are a coalition of groups and are therefore very top line in our asks as we do not get involved in any detailed advocacy positions.

10. Registered/established as Global Campaign on Climate

11. Do you consider your organization to be
International. We operate internationally as our alliance members come from across the globe. Our staff are based globally as we operate a decentralised structure. Our focus is on the International climate negotiations so we work in many different countries as well as at the international level.

12. Describe the structure and the decision making process of your organization, including all administrative bodies.
We have a Secretariat which is run by the Executive Director and subsequent heads of Campaigns, Communications and Outreach. The Executive Director reports to the Board which is made up of up to 15 Board members from some of the GCCA partner organisations. We have a membership of over 350 organisations who we ask to endorse or refuse the decisions made by the Board.

13. a) List the names and nationalities of current members of your executive bodies and describe how they are elected/nominated.
Kumi Naidoo - South African Alden Meyer - American
Steven Guilbeault - Canadian
Barry Coates - New Zealander
Peter Bahouth - American
Fei Tevi - Fijian
Mike Townsley - British
Guilermo Kerber Mas - Argentinian
Tasneem Essop - South African
Munqeth Mehyar - Jordanian
Kjeld Jakobsen - Brazilian
Lo Sze Ping - China

13. b) Are any government officials members of your board or executive staff?
No
14. How many members does your organization have and in which countries are they located? Please list the number of members by country and continent.
At present we have 358 partner organisations and they are listed in the following countries and continents:

- North America (USA and Canada) - 121
- South America (Brazil, Peru) - 15
- Africa (Nigeria, Ghana, Kenya, Tanzania) - 18
- Europe (UK, France, Spain, Italy, Germany, Netherlands, Belgium, Greece, Denmark, Norway) - 154
- Middle East (Lebanon, Turkey, Egypt) - 11
- Asia - 32
- Australasia - 7

15. Do the membership rules of your organization allow both individuals and organizations to be members?
We only allow organisations to be members of the GCCA:

Please go to: http://tcktcktck.org/partners/partners-a-z-list/

(We have too many partners for the space allowed here - I will add all the names of our partners in a supporting document).

16. Does the organization charge membership fees? Is the fee the same for all members and charged to all members? If not, please explain
No - we have no membership fee.

17. a) Does your membership include organizations that have ECOSOC consultative status?
If so, please list them
Yes, I do not have a definitive list but believe the following members are ECOSOC Registered:

Greenpeace International
Oxfam International
Action Aid
International Trade Union Confederation
WWF International
Natural Resource and Defence Council
17. b) Is your organization a member of one or several organization(s) that are applying for or already have ECOSOC consultative status? If so, please provide name(s)
Yes, I do not have a definitive list but believe the following members are ECOSOC Registered:
Greenpeace International
Oxfam International
Action Aid
International Trade Union Confederation
WWF International
Natural Resource and Defence Council

18. Are other organizations affiliated with your organization? If yes, please provide a list of these organizations
No

19. a) Does your organization have any relationship to a government? If yes, please describe the nature of this relationship.
We have received funding from the Government of Quebec in the past.

19. b) In the past five years, did your organization receive money or other contributions from a government? If yes, please specify and provide the dates and amounts received, as well as an explanation of how the funds were used.
Yes - funds were received from the Government of Quebec in 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011 and 2012. This funding has provided for the core operational costs of running our office in Montreal and providing administrative support.

20. Has your organization previously applied for ECOSOC consultative status? If yes, please indicate year of previous application
No

21. a) Does your organization already hold accreditation with any organs, funds, programmes or specialized agencies of the United Nations? If so, please specify
Yes, we are accredited as part of the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC)

21. b) Was your organization's accreditation with any organs, funds, programmes or specialized agencies of the United Nations ever withdrawn or suspended? If so, please specify

3. Summarize the aims and purposes of your organization.
Operation ASHA’s mission is to eliminate tuberculosis among disadvantaged communities. We do this by providing treatment, counselling, education, and supportive services to tuberculosis patients in the communities where we work. We also implement awareness and preventive measures to mitigate tuberculosis in these communities. In addition, we seek to build capacity among governments, public health organizations and other NGOs to adopt and implement our best practices.

4. a) Explain how you carry out these aims.
Our Core Methodology focuses on community involvement:

1. We follow DOTS (Directly Observed Therapy, Short Course). DOTS is a treatment method approved by the World Health Organization in 1993 and implemented by governments across the world. We work in close collaboration with the National TB Program. We receive all anti-TB drugs, diagnostic and physicians’ services, and hospital care from the government. In addition, the Indian government also provides a grant covering recurring expenses for treatment centers in India after two years of operation. It’s our goal to use resources that are already available and easily accessible. In other words, the government provides the resources, and we increase their capacity in distributing TB treatment in India’s most inaccessible slums and villages.

2. Community Involvement. We employ trusted community leaders. Our counsellors and providers are employed from directly within the community where we establish a treatment center. That way, the employee’s neighbors and friends feel comfortable and more likely to approach them for treatment. We employ nearly 100 local individuals to serve as counsellors for OpASHA. Each counsellor is brought to the main office in New Delhi for two weeks of intensive training. After completing the training, they must pass a written and a verbal test to become eligible for employment. Those who pass the test are employed full time as OpASHA counsellor in the community where they’re from. The slums where we operate are difficult to negotiate for anyone but a local, making our counsellors invaluable assets to detecting new TB cases and administering treatment the local community. Each counsellor educates patients and families about TB, including how to prevent infecting others, the importance of completing treatment to prevent MDR-TB, and decrease stigma against TB so that patients receive the necessary care and support from their families.

Skilled field staff: Our staff requires minimal supervision from the central office in New Delhi. Patient treatment and enrolment is kept track of electronically and verified against records from government labs, hospitals and medicine warehouse. Staff counsellors receive bonuses and increased pay as they enrol, and successfully complete treatment for, more patients.

3. Quality Control. This is carried out at two levels. The first level is the regular staff like program managers, senior program managers and COO. The second level is quality auditors, who visit every center at random and report directly to the CEO so they cannot be influenced by the line staff. Additionally, we currently have independent studies being conducted by MIT-JPAL to evaluate our incentive-based salaries for our employees.

4. eCompliance. This is the single most effective innovation by OpASHA. Using SMS and biometric technology, the system alerts counsellors and program managers whenever a patient misses a dose, ensures that the counsellor visits the patient within 48 hours, generates all reports automatically, eliminates human error, improves transparency and reliability, increases productivity and reduces recurring costs.

5. Low-cost operating model: Our model is well-suited to operate with the limited resources developing countries have, especially in the countries’ most poverty-stricken communities. We don’t require more or new resources. We use ones that are already there. For example, we establish centers in existing corner shops, community health clinics, and temples. We hire locals who own the buildings to support our full-time staff counsellors in administering medication and running the distribution centers, and refer patients to government facilities.
and medical professionals for diagnosis and emergency treatment. The local employees we hire as counsellors do not generally hold advanced degrees, and receive intensive training at our main office in Delhi when they are hired.

4. b) Please give examples of recent projects and activities.
Operation ASHA operates 201 centers in India and 40 in Cambodia. Currently we are the largest NGO in India (in terms of population served) running DOT treatment centers. OpASHA just recently executed an MoU with Vietnam and will begin operations in August, 2012.
OpASHA was contacted by the Millennium Village Projects in Uganda. Our eCompliance is undergoing a small pilot project in a mountainous rural area.
Our organization also contributes to research and advocacy programs. We work closely with the government and district TB officers providing best practices in service delivery of TB treatment. OpASHA has a robust Feedback Loop which encompasses public health officers, WHO staff and community leaders. Regular audit by internal and external auditors ensures stringent quality control.
In addition to the above, our biometrics is the only system using fingerprints to track patient doses.
OpASHAs eCompliance system is at the forefront of tuberculosis treatment. Every patient must log in at every visit. If the patient misses a dose, the system sends a text alert to cell-phone of the patient, counsellor and program manager. Within 48 hours, the counsellor goes to the patient’s house, gets the finger print, gives the medicine and provides further counselling to ensure that the patient joins the therapy again. The counsellor also provides over-the-counter drugs to treat common side effects like pain in the abdomen, acidity or vomiting. These are given not just to TB patients but to anyone in the community who needs them, thus providing camouflage. TB patients who develop serious side-effects are referred to the public hospital.
OpASHA has mobilized several other partners for forward and backward linkages including Microsoft Research and Poverty Action Lab at MIT.

5. a) How do you intend to contribute to the work of ECOSOC and/or its subsidiary bodies?
Operation ASHA would like to contribute at meetings, policy papers, research and recommendations on effectively working under the National TB programs across the world. We would also like to contribute with our innovative use of biometrics technology in the fight against MDR-TB. In addition, our system is being modified to work with ante-natal care, vaccinations and HIV/AIDS.

5. b) Please give details on planned activities and projects.
Adopting our eCompliance in TB care & control will significantly reduce the spread of a deadlier form of TB, Multi-Drug Resistant TB (MDR-TB). Currently, where our biometrics is implemented our default rate is <1.5% as compared to the government of India’s rate at 6-7%. Decreasing default rates reduces the likelihood of developing MDR-TB, and other forms of drug resistance such as XDR and XXDR-TB. These forms are difficult to treat, medicines are not readily available and are almost 100 times more expensive to obtain. Another part of OpASHAs strategy is to begin training other NGOs, governments and advocate to policy makers about our best practices. Our model is “19 times lower than the nearest other NGO”, says Joan Yao, Investment Manager, LGT Venture Philanthropy, Switzerland.

Cost effectiveness is extremely important in public health care. Our model treats a patient for $50 USD. Other NGOs costs run as high as $500 per patient. In addition to training in our model, OpASHA sits on the Stop TB Coordinating Board, representing NGOs from the developing world at TB meetings and conferences. This affords OpASHA to have a voice at an International Level.

6. a) Has your organization participated in any UN-conference(s)?
   If yes, explain in detail
   N/A

6. b) Has your organization contributed to any areas with substantive UN concern and participated in any activities of the United Nations?
   If yes, explain in detail
   Operation ASHAs focus is solely on Tuberculosis, which is MDG 6, established by the U.N. Currently, our organization is a coordinating member of the Stop TB partnership and participates in all activities to represent NGOs from developing countries. Our goal is to train other NGOs in our best practices while we extend our reach internationally. Under the current Revised National Tuberculosis Program in India, we are a model of the Public Private Mix (PPM) for other NGOs to follow. Our success can be contributed to our hard work, expansion and our use of innovative technology.

7. Would you broadly categorize your organization as a research organization, an advocacy/lobbying organization, a grass-roots project implementation organization or any other?

3. Summarize the aims and purposes of your organization.
Soroptimist International Great Britain and Ireland (SIGBI) Limited, is a not-for-profit, women's service organisation with 355 clubs in 24 countries.

As part of a world-wide organisation for women, SIGBI is working to transform the lives of women and girls through projects of education, leadership, gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls. SIGBI's long-term programme of work for global impact is "Educate to Lead".

In order to effect sustainable change, improving health, education and opportunities for enterprise, will assist in delivering self-sustaining outcomes in health, wealth, citizenship and the environment. SIGBI aims to promote such change.

Our members work with women and girls at local, national and international level through a variety of projects to Educate, Enable and Empower women and girls to reach their full potential.
We believe that by educating the women and girls of today, they will become the leaders of tomorrow; whether that is as the leader of their family, within their community or within business or politics, to allow them to influence their environment.

Education is a catalyst for change that sets off a lifelong course. Good quality education is an underlying determinant of a wide array of other social, economical and political outcomes.

Education is also a basic human right which has been underscored in legally binding International Treaties since the Universal Declaration of Human Rights in 1948.

The education of women and girls contributes to other development goals, such as a) smaller families, b) decreased child mortality, c) more educated children and d) better health.

Achieving the other Millennium Development Goals is dependent upon having a trained cadre of workers in areas such as education, health and environment. Educating women to take on these roles will benefit societies as a whole and lead to further progress towards development.

The positive impact of educating women and girls is felt even further afield than development goals. Studies now show an important relationship between educated women and girls and a reduction in incidents of violence across societies.

Education also illustrates economic benefits such as higher wages, nationwide economic growth and future economic growth. The World Bank and UNESCO now estimate that the economic cost to 65 low and middle income countries and transitional countries of failing to educate girls equally with boys, could be as high as USD $92 billion each year (Plan UK).

Soroptimists believe in the ethos of "Educate to Lead" and that all women and girls, regardless of their educational attainment, are entitled to have their voices heard and to take on leadership roles in their families, communities and beyond. However, having a strong educational foundation on which to stand, will amplify their voice and increase their opportunities.

Studies are beginning to provide evidence of the positive impact of women's education on democracy. Educated women are more likely to participate in politics and decision-making.

Improved governance and properly functioning societies depend on active and engaged citizens. With 50% of the population female, educating women and girls is critical to society as a whole, as education empowers women and empowered women are more likely to attain positions of leadership and influence.

4. a) Explain how you carry out these aims.
Soroptimist International Great Britain and Ireland (SIGBI) Limited carries out its programme work via Clubs in 24 countries.

Every Soroptimist member belongs to a Club, through which they can take part in organised Programme Activities.

Members of a club meet (on average) twice a month to concentrate on SIGBI projects, primarily focusing on improving the lives of women and girls at local, national and international levels.

Working with other NGOs, charities, governments, membership organisations, schools, colleges, universities, churches, businesses, banks and local councils, Soroptimists undertake service projects, as well as fund raising activities.

Our members come from the business, professional and charitable communities and have a wide range of knowledge, skills and expertise to use in creating such projects.

We have worked in partnership with Oxfam, UNICEF, Save The Children, The World Health Organisation, the International Red Cross, WaterAid, BookAid, Fairtrade, Sightsavers and Women for Women International.

SIGBI members have worked on various UNICEF initiatives and partnerships including the Born Free Campaign, Child Friendly Schools initiative, as well as carrying out many fund raising activities for special appeals. SIGBI formed a unique partnership with UNICEF to aid flood victims in Pakistan in 2011.

Economic Empowerment - Women and Poverty:
Women comprise half of the world’s population, perform 66% of the world’s work, produce 50% of the food and constitute between 60 and 80% of the manufacturing workforce in developing countries. Despite their major contribution to socio-economic development, women continue to be marginalised in many countries around the world. (Centre for International Private Enterprise).

Soroptimists encourage discussion and awareness of economic empowerment and women and poverty to raise awareness of the issues within clubs. Using Friendship Links with clubs in other countries, Soroptimists work in partnership by sharing research, expertise and funds for specific projects (for example micro-loans or assisting women in business development, financial skills and setting up cottage industries).
SIGBI's other programme areas include:
Environmental Sustainability
Food Security and Healthcare
Learning Opportunities
Violence and Conflict Resolution

Soroptimist lobby and undertake projects to support environmental sustainability; projects are diverse and include the provision of bore holes, water wells, irrigation systems. In the UK, clubs introduced the Bee Plus Project, joining with schools to promote the welfare and sustainable bee population throughout the world and highlighting the adverse effects on the environment if we do not.

Marine and land biodiversity programmes, together with sustainable crops and animal husbandry are also popular projects.

SIGBI has linked with the HER (Health Enables Returns) project in Pakistan and Bangladesh. Working in factories in seven countries, HER trains female employees to teach their peers about reproductive health, nutrition, infectious disease and other health issues. The project also links women up to health services, either by improving in-factory clinics or directing women to outside government services.

Project: Cell-Life in South Africa teaches pregnant women who are HIV-positive to prevent their babies from contracting the disease with medication. In South Africa, 40 percent of children under five still die from AIDS-related illnesses, in part because many mothers don’t complete the mother-to-child prevention programs. Cell-Life developed a 10-week program of text message reminders designed to help mothers remember when to attend appointments, give medication and tell them how to safely feed their babies.

We can give in-depth examples of many, many more projects undertaken throughout the SIGBI Federation.

4. b) Please give examples of recent projects and activities.
SIGBI created a partnership with Hope and Homes for Children in 2007, which was adopted by Soroptimist International and Federations of America, Europe and South West Pacific. This was called Project Sierra - A Family and a Future, which raised over £1 million (pounds sterling) to help disadvantaged women and children in Sierra Leone.

As a result of this funding, 200 families have been stabilised, 129 young women finished their education or vocational training and 48 street children were reconciled with their families.
The 3E Project Healthcare is a partnership between SIGBI and the international medical charity Maternal and Child health Advocacy (MCAI) and its partner, Advance Life Support Group (ALSG). This is a three year fundraising challenge which will save the lives of countless critically ill women, babies and children in the Gambia. This joint venture focuses on access to appropriate health care through education, empowerment and enablement in a country where one pregnant woman or girl out of every 49 will die from the complications of pregnancy or childbirth.

Fairtrade Fortnight in 2012 urged all SIGBI members to lobby and work towards better prices, decent working conditions, local sustainability, and fair terms of trade for farmers and workers in the developing world. By requiring companies to pay sustainable prices (which must never fall lower than the market price), Fairtrade addresses the injustices of conventional trade, which traditionally discriminates against the poorest.

Soroptimists are asked to lobby on women's rights and access to land. In many countries legislation prevents women from owning and inheriting land, which increases their vulnerability to poverty and exposes them to further discrimination. In some countries, women lose their rights to own land on the death of their husband.

The right to land has seldom been considered in development debates, yet where land is more equally distributed and managed between men and women, there is a marked improvement in economic development, child and maternal health, and education. Where women’s rights to own and inherit land is denied, negative spirals of poverty are registered and several socio-economic indicators worsen. Despite this knowledge and heritage of women’s rights in international declarations and conventions, very little has been done in terms of concrete actions and measures. The price crisis of agricultural products and, more broadly, the world economic crisis have sharpened the existing inequalities, amplifying women’s vulnerability related to nutrition. We encourage action to end hunger, eradicate inequalities and give back to women their dignity and food sovereignty.

SIGBI members also raise awareness on environmental issues, such as climate change, access to clean drinking water, against the use of plastic bags and over-packaging, recycling and landfill and marine conservation.

Health projects include HIV/AIDS - educating girls and boys to practice safe sex, combating malaria and tuberculosis, female genital mutilation, fistula, access to maternal and infant health care, dietary considerations and many more.

SIGBI members celebrate International Literacy Day by continuing to work on or embarking on literacy programmes in schools, day centres, community centres and evening schools. They provide facilities whereby street children, sex industry workers and illiterate parents are encouraged to attend reading and writing classes and to eventually act as mentors to others.

To celebrate International Women's Day Soroptimists held activities and events throughout the 24 countries of the Federation. SIGBI members joined Women for Women International in the "Join me on the bridge event" and examples can be found on our website http://sigbi.org/

5. a) How do you intend to contribute to the work of ECOSOC and/or its subsidiary bodies?
By participating in and attending as many reviews, consultations, workshops, meetings, programmes, conferences and summits as possible and by utilising the skills and expertise of our members by promoting and working towards achieving the internationally agreed development goals.

By working on issues pertaining to population and development, social development, the status of women, crime, science and technology, sustainable development, healthcare and food security in our clubs throughout the UK, Africa, Asia and the Caribbean, SIGBI intends to make a positive contribution to the work of the Committee.

Our members have access to government ministers, members of parliament and local government officials and are able to lobby on issues of local, national and international importance. Our network connections and consultation processes enable SIGBI members to be aware of issues related to women and girls and the critical issues of developed and developing countries.

If we are successful in applying for ECOSOC registration this will provide us with further information and opportunities to develop our own policies and procedures and engage our members further in international issues and the economic development and sustainability of women and girls.

5. b) Please give details on planned activities and projects.
The 3E Project: Healthcare is SIGBI's partnership project with the international medical charity Maternal and Childhealth Advocacy (MCAI) and its partner, Advance Life Support Group. This is a three year fundraising challenge which aims to reduce the mortality rate of women and babies in the Gambia.

The following activities form part of SIGBI's calendar of action:

Fairtrade Fortnight
World Book Day
International Women's Day
World Water Day
World Health Day
International Day of the Family
World Environment Day
International Literacy Day
International Day of Peace
World Food Day
International Day for the Eradication of Poverty
Anti-Slavery Day
Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women
World Aids Day
UN Day of Human Rights

In 2003 SIGBI Programme Action Awards were introduced to honour the excellent work done by Clubs throughout our Federation. The most recent awards are from 2011.

Economic and Social Development
The winner was SI Banjul, in the Gambia for its “Enhanced Sustainable Agricultural Programme”.

This project was created in 2008 when the club was approached for help by a group of women farmers. Women farmers in 16 villages were in desperate need of fencing around their farm land to prevent animals eating their crops. This land supported over 300 women and their families; women who had no other forms of generating income or opportunities to do so. With poor access to portable water and low literacy levels, the devastation of crops meant little or no food would be available, leading to chronic food insecurity.

Headed by SI Banjul and supported by SIGBI clubs throughout the Federation, seed, farming implements, a bore hole and fencing was provided, which lead to higher crop yields, allowing 75% of the crop to be sold and 25% retained for consumption by the farmers and their families.

Education
SI Bonaberi-Douala (Cameroon), won the Education Programme Award in 2011 for their Adult Literacy Programme School. Running since 2008, the school provides opportunities for older women who were deprived of education when younger.

The programme also allows women and girls to return to education and acquire/develop their literacy skills. This leads to increased self confidence and motivation to assist them in becoming self-reliant. In the first year there was an intake of 157 students and a staff of 14.

Of the first intake, 9 candidates were presented with the Cameroon Government First School Leaving Certificate Examination with all 9 candidates scoring 100%.
The club plan to develop this programme to include a vocational institution to train and assist young girls and underprivileged women to gain skills that will enable them to generate income and assist them in becoming productive, independent and self-reliant.

Environment
SI Calcutta Downtown (India) won the Environment award their “Provision of Toilets” project. The Club provided sanitation facilities for the Mahila Seva Samity home for destitute women and girls in Rajpur and the Makhana and Guptipara schools located in remote rural areas of Bengal.

Separate sanitation facilities are essential if girls are to attend school. There were only 5 toilets for 1100 girls and those that existed were in a very bad condition. Separate toilet facilities for girls and boys have now been completed.

Health
The Mosquito Net Project, led by SI Harrogate and District (UK) improves the lives of women and girls by preventing the spread of malaria. It is a service project which ensures that the correct nets are purchased and that they reach their proper destination.

The 2012 SIGBI Programme Awards will be presented at the SIGBI Conference in Belfast (Northern Ireland) in October 2012.

6. a) Has your organization participated in any UN-conference(s)?
If yes, explain in detail
The SIGBI Management Board has made it policy for the SIGBI President and Programme Director attend the Commission on the Status of Women every year. This is facilitated by SIGBI's membership of Soroptimist International. However, if SIGBI has its own consultative status with ECOSOC, many more members would be willing to attend and participate.

CSW 56 meeting
It was not always possible to attend the sessions of the Committee meeting as an observer since it was held in a part of the UN for which a secondary pass was required.

The SIGBI President, President Elect and Programme Director attended numerous workshops and presentations and participated in a number of negotiations.

The President Elect also attended the UN Women sponsored events held in the North Lawn Building, which were excellent.

A number of members attended the NGO Parallel events, which were wide-ranging, and the UK NGO briefings which took place each morning. One person had been identified from the Steering group to liaise with UK Mission and Government representatives.

UK Mission briefings took place each evening to report on what was happening at CSW in general.

Chinwe Mbah from SI Nigeria was an integral part of one panel discussion. SIGBI also lobbied hard with UN women in the second week to get points into the final communique which was published.

SIGBI members who attended benefitted enormously from the experience, which will lead to more informed and engaged advocacy with governments around the Federation. In the UK, the UK Programme Action Committee updates the Home Secretary and Minister for Women on a quarterly basis on project work being carried out in the area of violence against women.

6. b) Has your organization contributed to any areas with substantive UN concern and participated in any activities of the United Nations?
If yes, explain in detail
Our members have attended and supported CSW for many years and although SIGBI Limited has had little direct involvements at the UN, members have contributed to statements, workshops and presentations given by Soroptimist International.

Many members and clubs also work with UN Associations, one example being SI Edinburgh in Scotland, with one of the SIGBI members chairing the UNA Edinburgh committee. It is our hope that if consultative status is granted to SIGBI, our contribution and participation would be more substantive.

7. Would you broadly categorize your organization as a research organization, an advocacy/lobbying organization, a grass-roots project implementation organization or any other?
Grass-roots project implementation organization. SIGBI members undertake research projects, advocacy and lobbying and grass-roots project implementation. If we had to choose one, it would be grass-roots project implementation.
PART II

8. Date of registration or date of establishment
27 October 2009

9. Country (or countries) of registration/establishment and nature and title of authorities with which registered
SIGBI became a company limited by guarantee on 27 October 2009. Prior to that it has been in existence as a membership organisation since 1934.

SIGBI was incorporated as a private limited company and is registered with Companies House in England and Wales (United Kingdom).

10. Registered/established as SIGBI was initially established as a membership organisation, but became a company limited by guarantee in 2009. Its mission, vision and goals did not change.

SIGBI is recognised as an NGO in the UK and members have participated in government consultations.

11. Do you consider your organization to be
International. SIGBI is an international organisation covering 355 clubs in 24 countries. Each year we hold an annual conference to which members from all 24 countries are invited to attend to discuss international issues, listen to local, national and international speakers and celebrate programme awards from the UK, Africa, Asia, the Caribbean and Europe.

Our members in all 24 countries lobby on issues of international relevance, such as economic development, human rights and the status of women, food security and health care, equality of education provision, violence and conflict resolution and the environment.

12. Describe the structure and the decision making process of your organization, including all administrative bodies.
SIGBI Limited is managed by a Federation Management Board of 12 Directors and the Company Secretary, the later in a non-voting capacity.

Clubs and Countries are represented by a Councillor on the Federation Consultative Council (FCC - 40 representatives). The FCC is represented on the FMB by three Directors Without Portfolio. Each Councillor is also allocated to one of the following committees - Communications, Finance, Membership and Organisational Development, to ensure the members participate in the management and furtherance of the organisation.
Clubs and Countries are further represented by a Programme Action Chairman on the Federation Programme Action Committee (FPAC) which meets once a year prior to the annual conference. The FPAC develops programme goals and advances programme work within the organisation.

Clubs are also grouped into Regions (in the UK) and National Associations, Networks and Countries outside the UK. This allows members to meet in smaller geographic locations to concentrate on local and national programme projects.

SIGBI Directors are voted into office by all the Clubs in the Federation on a one club - one vote basis.

13. a) List the names and nationalities of current members of your executive bodies and describe how they are elected/nominated.

Federation Management Board
President, Maureen Maguire, British - elected by Clubs.

President Elect, Pat Black, British - elected by Clubs.

Vice President, Margaret Oldroyd, British - elected by Clubs.

Immediate Past President, Liz Batten, British - automatic progression from President to IPP.

15. Do the membership rules of your organization allow both individuals and organizations to be members?
Clubs are members of SIGBI Limited and individuals are members of clubs.

16. Does the organization charge membership fees? Is the fee the same for all members and charged to all members? If not, please explain
Yes, the organisation does charge membership fees. Currently these are broken down into 4 bands - see below:

Band 1:
Bangladesh, Cameroon, Gambia, Malawi, Nepal, Nigeria, Pakistan, Sierra Leone and Zimbabwe. £18.37 per annum.

Band 2:
Grenada, India, Jamaica, Sri Lanka, St Vincent and the Grenadines. £20.04 per annum.

Band 3:
Anguilla, Mauritius, South Africa, Seychelles, Turks and Caicos. £23.69 per annum.

Band 4:
Barbados, Channel Islands, Isle of Man, Malta, Republic of Ireland, Trinidad and Tobago, United Kingdom. £45.65 per annum.

Currently fee bands are calculated using the GDP (Gross Domestic Product) and PPP (Purchasing Power Parity) of each country.

However, in 2010, Clubs at SIGBI's General Meeting voted to adopt a one fee band policy.
for all clubs in all countries.

A single capitation fee will therefore be levied for all members with effect from financial year 2020/2021. To facilitate this, the fee banding system will be phased out over the intervening financial years.

17. a) Does your membership include organizations that have ECOSOC consultative status?
If so, please list them
No, although SIGBI Limited is a member of Soroptimist International, which does have ECOSOC consultative status.

17. b) Is your organization a member of one or several organization(s) that are applying for or already have ECOSOC consultative status? If so, please provide name(s)
No, although SIGBI Limited is a member of Soroptimist International, which does have ECOSOC consultative status.

18. Are other organizations affiliated with your organization? If yes, please provide a list of these organizations
Not formally, although we work with many NGOs, charities and governments throughout the Federation.

19. a) Does your organization have any relationship to a government? If yes, please describe the nature of this relationship.
Informal only, for example members serving on consultation committees.

19. b) In the past five years, did your organization receive money or other contributions from a government? If yes, please specify and provide the dates and amounts received, as well as an explanation of how the funds were used.
No.

20. Has your organization previously applied for ECOSOC consultative status? If yes, please indicate year of previous application
No.

21. a) Does your organization already hold accreditation with any organs, funds, programmes or specialized agencies of the United Nations? If so, please specify
No.
21. b) Was your organization's accreditation with any organs, funds, programmes or specialized agencies of the United Nations ever withdrawn or suspended? If so, please specify.
No.

Summarize the aims and purposes of your organization.
Soroptimist International Great Britain and Ireland (SIGBI) Limited, is a not-for-profit, women's service organisation with 355 clubs in 24 countries.

As part of a world-wide organisation for women, SIGBI is working to transform the lives of women and girls through projects of education, leadership, gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls. SIGBI's long-term programme of work for global impact is "Educate to Lead".

In order to effect sustainable change, improving health, education and opportunities for enterprise, will assist in delivering self-sustaining outcomes in health, wealth, citizenship and the environment. SIGBI aims to promote such change.

Our members work with women and girls at local, national and international level through a variety of projects to Educate, Enable and Empower women and girls to reach their full potential.

We believe that by educating the women and girls of today, they will become the leaders of tomorrow; whether that is as the leader of their family, within their community or within business or politics, to allow them to influence their environment.

Education is a catalyst for change that sets off a lifelong course. Good quality education is an underlying determinant of a wide array of other social, economical and political outcomes.

Education is also a basic human right which has been underscored in legally binding International Treaties since the Universal Declaration of Human Rights in 1948.

The education of women and girls contributes to other development goals, such as a) smaller families, b) decreased child mortality, c) more educated children and d) better health.

Achieving the other Millennium Development Goals is dependent upon having a trained cadre of workers in areas such as education, health and environment. Educating women to take on these roles will benefit societies as a whole and lead to further progress towards development.

The positive impact of educating women and girls is felt even further afield than development goals. Studies now show an important relationship between educated women and girls and a reduction in incidents of violence across societies.

Education also illustrates economic benefits such as higher wages, nationwide economic growth and future economic growth. The World Bank and UNESCO now estimate that the economic cost to 65 low and middle income countries and transitional countries of failing to educate girls equally with boys, could be as high as USD$ 92 billion each year (Plan UK).

Soroptimists believe in the ethos of "Educate to Lead" and that all women and girls, regardless of their educational attainment, are entitled to have their voices heard and to take on leadership roles in their families, communities and beyond. However, having a strong educational foundation on which to stand, will amplify their voice and increase their opportunities.

Studies are beginning to provide evidence of the positive impact of women's education on democracy. Educated women are more likely to participate in politics and decision-making.

Improved governance and properly functioning societies depend on active and engaged citizens. With 50% of the population female, educating women and girls is critical to society as a whole, as education empowers women and empowered women are more likely to attain positions of leadership and influence.

How do you intend to contribute to the work of ECOSOC and/or its subsidiary bodies?

By participating in and attending as many reviews, consultations, workshops, meetings, programmes, conferences and summits as possible and by utilising the skills and expertise of our members by promoting and working towards achieving the internationally agreed development goals.

By working on issues pertaining to population and development, social development, the status of women, crime, science and technology, sustainable development, healthcare and food security in our clubs throughout the UK, Africa, Asia and the Caribbean, SIGBI intends to make a positive contribution to the work of the Committee.

Our members have access to government ministers, members of parliament and local government officials and are able to lobby on issues of local, national and international importance. Our network connections and consultation processes enable SIGBI members to be aware of issues related to women and girls and the critical issues of developed and developing countries.

If we are successful in applying for ECOSOC registration this will provide us with further information and opportunities to develop our own policies and procedures and engage our members further in international issues and the economic development and sustainability of women and girls.

2. e) E-mail address.
dpilote@vuesetvoix.com

2. f) Website, if any.
http://www.vuesetvoix.com

3. Summarize the aims and purposes of your organization.
Vues et Voix seeks to contribute significantly to the intellectual fulfilment and social inclusion of its users. Vues et Voix seeks, on behalf of its users:

• To promote equality of opportunity;
• To provide fair, interactive and multi-media access to the cultural rights recognized by the United Nations (UN) and specified in the "Millennium Development Goals "(MDGs)

4. a) Explain how you carry out these aims.
VUES ET VOIX is a cultural institute, publisher and distributor of free audio books and other cultural and educational products for visually impaired persons and to all persons with physical and perceptual handicaps or handicaps due to an educational or social context.

In support of its Mission, VUES ET VOIX also operates a specialized radio station.

Its users, from la Francophonie in Quebec and all over the world, are primarily people who have no access to reading because of visual, physical or perceptual limitations or for reasons related to a social disadvantage.

VUES ET VOIX, a non-profit organization, contributes to access to cultural and educational rights in order to promote social inclusion and equal opportunities.

4. b) Please give examples of recent projects and activities.
Each year we record 850 audio-books and we make 110 000 loans to 10 000 users. Four hundred and fifty (450) volunteers record, assist and verify audio books over 38 000 hours of volunteer work, and nearly 3 000 hours “on air” are given for the radio programming.

We operate a radio station that gives employment to handicapped people. The main goal of our radio station is to contribute to the empowerment of disabled people. We broadcast 24 hours a day seven days a week. We also read newspaper and magazine articles on a daily base.

We helped the Algerian National Library set up an audio books library.

Since 2008, in partnership with Union Francophone des Aveugles (UFA), we have been helping St-Vincent School for the Blind in Port-au-Prince (Haiti) by supervising and helping students to reach their goals and achieve better academic results.

In Haiti, after the earthquake, in cooperation with L'Espace-Sud de Martinique we distributed one container of scholastic supplies.

5. a) How do you intend to contribute to the work of ECOSOC and/or its subsidiary bodies?
Promote a rise in living standards, full employment and social and economic progress for disabled persons;

Find solutions to economic, social and health challenges facing disabled persons;

Facilitate international cooperation in the fields of culture and education;

Promote universal respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms.

5. b) Please give details on planned activities and projects.
In cooperation with la Commune de St-Louis de Marie-Galante in La Guadeloupe, we are planning to open an audio books library on the premises of their existing library.

In cooperation with la Commune de Les Anses d'Arlet in La Martinique, we are planning on installing an audio books recording center and a library.
In cooperation with the Foundation of Sylvia Bongo Ondimba, Première Dame du Gabon, we are planning on installing an audio books recording center and a library.

We organized Le Colloque International sur les Objectifs du Millénaire « Évènement Millenium Event » (CIME 2010). This major 3 days (May 26th to 29th 2010) event – 850 participants from 35 countries - offered a place for discussion and consultation to all of those who had the Millennium Development Goals " (MDGs) at heart and who wanted to provide innovative answers.

We are currently working on a project to create a center that would group together eight (8) organizations working on one of the Millennium Development Goals "(MDGs). We want to share human and financial resources in order to promote sustainable development and a better future for our children.

6. a) Has your organization participated in any UN-conference(s)?
   If yes, explain in detail
   No

6. b) Has your organization contributed to any areas with substantive UN concern and participated in any activities of the United Nations?
   If yes, explain in detail
   Every year we organize activities that place an emphasis on International Days:

   International Women's Day ;
   World Book and Copyright Day [UNESCO];
   World Day for Cultural Diversity for Dialogue and Development;
   International Youth Day;
   World Humanitarian Day;
   International Literacy Day [UNESCO];
   International Day of Older Persons;
   World Sight Day;
   International Day of Persons with Disabilities;
   International Volunteer Day for Economic and Social Development.

   We have not so far participated in any activities of the United Nations itself
7. Would you broadly categorize your organization as a research organization, an advocacy/lobbying organization, a grass-roots project implementation organization or any other?
Other. None of the above. We would categorize our organization as providing access to fundamental rights (education, culture and gender equality) for disabled persons.

3. Summarize the aims and purposes of your organization.
To promote and achieve the worldwide conservation of animals and their habitats.

4. a) Explain how you carry out these aims.
ZSL Carries out the following activities:

1) We undertake and promote relevant high quality zoological and conservation research, to help us achieve our conservation objectives and to inform and influence conservation policy.
2) We encourage and motivate all of our stakeholders to support and engage in conservation.
We implement and achieve effective and appropriate 'in situ' and 'ex situ' conservation programmes for priority species and habitats.

4. b) Please give examples of recent projects and activities.

Defining the status of the planet: ZSL tracks the fate of species & populations in order to gauge human impact on biodiversity produce scientifically robust indicators for global targets & develop novel analytical approaches to understanding the distribution of biodiversity & species threat. This work is amenable to national-level conservation planning & enables ZSL to guide effective response as well as measure the success of conservation interventions. Publications include Status of the world’s vertebrates & the Living Planet report with WWF which will be published in time for Rio+20.

Countries working in: Global

Developing new conservation tools: ZSL researchers develop innovative & more efficient conservation tools. They find new ways of creating, implementing & analysing conservation activities worldwide for a variety of different species & habitats.

Countries working in: Ukraine, Russia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Mongolia, India, Kenya, Nepal

Ecosystem restoration for conservation & development: ZSL works with local communities across the planet to encourage sustainable use & management of natural resources. By working with communities, ZSL hopes to develop capacity to ensure that development & conservation can progress harmoniously.

Countries working in: Philippines, Thailand, Equatorial Guinea, UK.

Emerging threats: climate change: ZSL is determined to contribute as fully as possible to local, national & international efforts to address climate change by conducting strong science, convening experts, testing new approaches for reducing deforestation & highlighting the implications for species, ecosystems & humanity.

Countries working in: Indonesia, Democratic Republic of Congo, Cameroon, Gabon

Building conservation capacity in protected areas: ZSL is invested in helping the next generation of conservation leaders develop the capabilities, resources & expertise needed to manage the planet’s natural resources sustainably. ZSL is committed to developing in-country capacity. A major focus area for capacity building is training of protected area staff, especially park rangers.

Countries working in: Kenya, Mongolia

Advising Industry: ZSL provides scientifically sound advice & management recommendations. By working with major natural resource industries, assisting in biodiversity monitoring & advising on best practices & protocols for certification, ZSL can help ensure that industry greatly reduces its impact on biodiversity.

Informing policy: ZSL is committed to ensuring that governments & decision-makers are provided with the best available conservation science so that informed decisions can be made about the world’s species & ecosystems. ZSL is an active participant in the field of international conservation policy with staff members working with numerous international & national agencies to inform & advise on policy decisions on all levels. ZSL is also the scientific advisory body to the Global Legislators Organisation for a Balanced Environment, providing input & scientific guidance for their work on marine fisheries, tropical forests, coral reefs, environmental accounting, and biodiversity conservation & valuing natural capital to assist in the development of policy responses.

Convening conservation leaders: From its inception, ZSL has played a central role in convening & inspiring scientists, students & members of the public. In addition, ZSL publishes several highly respected journals & books.

5. a) How do you intend to contribute to the work of ECOSOC and/or its subsidiary bodies?
To provide scientifically robust information on the status of the world's biodiversity and ecosystems.

To work with countries to implement their National Biodiversity Strategies and Action Plans (NBSAPs)

To promote the increase protection in protected areas in the marine and terrestrial environment and build capacity for effective management

ZSL is the scientific advisor to the Global Legislators forum - ZSL will continue this work by providing scientifically objective information on the status of the world's biodiversity and ecosystems.

5. b) Please give details on planned activities and projects.
ZSL has established the following mission targets to achieve by 2026:

To define and monitor the status of the world's protected areas and 20,000 species by:
Continuing to improve global biodiversity indicators
Helping to define the conservation status of all vertebrates and a representative subset of invertebrates
Develop new technology for remote wildlife monitoring
Establish a global satellite monitoring system for conservation areas
Build a website containing all National Red List and Action Plans and help create a large fund enabling countries to implement national red lists.
Improve the status of 100 of the world's most threatened and distinct species by:
Building conservation capacity through a global conservation initiative to reverse the decline of the world's most Evolutionarily Distinct and Globally Endangered (EDGE) species
Identify ecosystems essential for human security and develop and implement strategies to manage the relevant biodiversity sustainably
Establish a large-scale collaborative initiative to protect the last remaining tiger and rhino strongholds
Undertake ambitious conservation breeding initiatives focusing on desert species, amphibians, invertebrates and fish

Protect and restore 1 million km2 of coastal and marine habitat and 1/2 million km2 of terrestrial habitat by:
Working with the Marine Reserves Coalition to develop and implement a Marine Protected area strategy focusing on protecting 30% of the world's oceans
Develop and help coordinate a global mangrove protection and restoration strategy
Invest in protected areas that contain a disproportionate amount of unique species Work to implement REDD+ and BLUE carbon initiatives to provide financial incentives to protect forests and oceans
Develop a standard biodiversity monitoring system and associated software that can be used by protected area managers throughout the world
Use new technology to develop a simple remote surveillance system that can be implemented in protected areas globally
Develop publically available protected area management training material and conduct courses to build capacity

Ensure best practice for natural resource use in at least 1 million km2 of priority production landscapes by:
Assisting industry in measuring and reporting impacts on biodiversity
Working with agribusinesses and extractive industries to ensure best practice
Working with investors to identify and mitigate risks associated with unsustainable biodiversity related practices
Develop land use planning tools for the agribusinesses and the extractive sector that will help minimise negative impacts on biodiversity Work with the agricultural sector to explore water efficiency and methods for reducing negative impacts on freshwater ecosystems

Through our zoos, research and public engagement activities, enable over 70 million people to adopt positive steps to support conservation and value nature by:
Leading on the science of behaviour change as it relates to conservation
Promoting citizen science engagement tools
Promoting natural capital / green accounting, and appropriate measuring tools and methods to governments, CBD, UNFCCC, IUCN WCC and the CMS
Continuing to generate awareness of global issues through retail activism
Increasing the number and quality of symposiums, public talks and educational programmes conducted by ZSL
Consolidating and presenting the best conservation science for policy and decision makers

6. a) Has your organization participated in any UN-conference(s)?
If yes, explain in detail
Yes:

UN Convention on Biological Diversity and the Subsidiary Body for Scientific, Technical and Technological Advice

UN Framework Convention on Climate Change

UN Summit on Sustainable Development (Rio+20)

6. b) Has your organization contributed to any areas with substantive UN concern and participated in any activities of the United Nations?
If yes, explain in detail
No. ZSL has not contributed to any areas with substantive UN Concern, nor participated in any activities of the UN other than conferences, as mentioned under 6(a).

7. Would you broadly categorize your organization as a research organization, an advocacy/lobbying organization, a grass-roots project implementation organization or any other?
Research organization. ZSL is a science based conservation NGO with on the ground grassroots projects in over 50 countries around the world.

8. Date of registration or date of establishment
08 April 1963
9. Country (or countries) of registration/establishment and nature and title of authorities with which registered

Registered with the UK Charity Commission.

The Charity Commission registers and regulates charities in England and Wales. The commission also keep the online Register of Charities, which provides information about each of the thousands of registered charities in England and Wales.

10. Registered/established as

Registered Charity in the United Kingdom number: 208728

11. Do you consider your organization to be

International. ZSL has projects in over 50 countries around the world and has in country offices in: Bangladesh, Indonesia, Philippines, Democratic Republic of Congo, Cameroon, Equatorial Guinea and Thailand.

12. Describe the structure and the decision making process of your organization, including all administrative bodies.

The Society is governed by the Charter, the current version of which dates from 1995, and by Byelaws and Regulations.

The Byelaws set out requirements concerning membership, the Officers (President, Secretary, and Treasurer), the election and proceedings of Council, and general and other meetings.

The Council is the ruling body of the Society, meets five times each year, and is responsible for establishing and monitoring the policies of the Society. Council members are elected from and by the membership of the Society by postal ballot and serve for periods of four years. All members are circulated with invitations to nominate Trustees, and advised of the retiring Trustees and specialist skills that the Council consider would be helpful to the Society. The election is by postal ballot of the complete Fellowship.

New Trustees are invited to an induction/training meeting prior to taking up their role, where, in accordance with Charity Commission guidelines, they are briefed on their legal obligations under charity law and, where relevant, company law, the Charter and Byelaws of the Society, the committee and decision-making process, directors’ reports and the financial performance of the Society. Additional training, if required, can be provided internally or Committees
In addition to Council, the Society operates through a number of committees and boards whose terms of reference and membership is shown below.

• Finance and General Purposes Committee
  Terms of Reference—To monitor the financial management of the Society and act as an audit committee, and to preview and prepare papers for Council requiring policy or capital investment decisions.

• Animal Welfare Committee
  Terms of Reference—To advise Council on matters relating to Animal Welfare in the collections, both at ZSL London Zoo and ZSL Whipsnade Zoo, at the IoZ, and in the work of Conservation Programmes.

• Awards Committee
  Terms of Reference—Council presents a number of awards for contributions to Zoology and Conservation. The committee advises Council on all matters relating to these awards and the appointment of Honorary Fellows.

• Joint University College London/Zoological Society of London Committee
  (from 1 August 2011)
  Terms of Reference—To determine, in the light of the policies and plans of the Society and where appropriate those of the University, the academic policy and development of the IoZ, and to advise the Director of Science of the Society thereon. To coordinate and monitor the implementation of the IoZ’s policies and plans, including planned staffing levels, student numbers and its financial management, and to submit an annual report thereon to the Council of the Society and the General Board of the Faculties of the University. To undertake other business as may be assigned to it by the Society or the University.

• Zoos Advisory Committee
  Terms of Reference—To provide specialist advice on the objectives of the Zoos and on specific aspects of their management; to review the annual business and financial plans for the Zoos and to recommend them to Council; to review any material variances to the plans and, where necessary, recommend to Council remedial actions; to review and recommend to Council any capital developments.
Day-to-Day Management
Day-to-day management is delegated to the Director General and the seven operational directors, and monitored by Council through the Officers. All matters of policy are determined by Council and the Officers of ZSL.

13. b) Are any government officials members of your board or executive staff?
No

14. How many members does your organization have and in which countries are they located? Please list the number of members by country and continent.
ZSL currently has 67,575 members and 2,814 fellows. The membership base is global with the majority arising from the UK.

15. Do the membership rules of your organization allow both individuals and organizations to be members?
No

16. Does the organization charge membership fees? Is the fee the same for all members and charged to all members? If not, please explain
Yes ZSL does charge membership fees and these vary depending on the level of engagement with the organisation.

ZSL Patron: £500 per year
ZSL Patrons is a prestigious programme offering a dedicated and exciting way of helping the Zoological Society of London (ZSL) in its mission to achieve and promote the worldwide conservation of animals and their habitats.

ZSL Fellow: £30 (student) - £105 (adults)
By becoming a Fellow individuals can make a direct contribution to ZSL’s scientific programmes and field projects - and enjoy a host of exclusive privileges in return. Amongst the range of benefits we offer are access to ZSL’s extensive library of rare zoological publications and invitations to special events and symposia.

ZSL Member: £50 per year
ZSL members have unlimited access to our two zoos.

17. a) Does your membership include organizations that have ECOSOC consultative status?
If so, please list them
No

17. b) Is your organization a member of one or several organization(s) that are applying for or already have ECOSOC consultative status? If so, please provide name(s)
No

18. Are other organizations affiliated with your organization? If yes, please provide a list of these organizations
Yes. There are numerous organisations affiliated with ZSL due to the nature of our work. Those include:
UK - WWF UK, University College London; Microsoft Corporation; Blue Marine Foundation; Greenpeace; Marine Conservation Society; Chagos Conservation Trust; Client Earth; Environmental Justice Foundation; Flore and Faun International; Sahara Conservation Fund; WildCRU; University of Oxford, UK; Penguin Lifelines; Oceanities, The Environment Agency; The Bat Conservation Trust, The London Wildlife Trust, Friends of River Crane Environment; Kingston University; RSPB

India - Bombay Natural History Society

Nepal - National Trust for Nature Conservation in Nepal

Saudi Arabia - King Khaled Wildlife Research Centre, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia;

Kenya - Kenya Wildlife Service, Maasai Wilderness Conservation Trust

USA - Wildlife Conservation Society; Pew Environment Group

Philippines - Project Seahorse Foundation for Marine Conservation; Bureau of Fisheries and Aquatic Resources, Department of the Environment and Natural Resources;

Bangladesh - Bangladesh Forest Department, Wildlife Trust of Bangladesh

Indonesia - Indonesian Ministry of Forestry

Panama - Fundacion Conservacion Naturaleza y Vida, The Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute, Panamanian National Aquatic Resources Authority and Panamanian Autoridad Nacional del Ambiente

Mongolia - Steppe Forward NGO; National University of Mongolia, Mongolian Academy of Sciences; Wild Camel Protection Foundation Mongolia

Canada: University of British Columbia

Australia: University of Western Australia

Germany - Max Planck Institute for Ornithology

South Georgia Government
19. a) Does your organization have any relationship to a government? If yes, please describe the nature of this relationship.

No

19. b) In the past five years, did your organization receive money or other contributions from a government? If yes, please specify and provide the dates and amounts received, as well as an explanation of how the funds were used.

Yes ZSL receives numerous grants from UK Government bodies to carry out its science conservation research and applied conservation programmes a wide array of countries around the world. Recent grants include:

Department for Environment Food and Rural Affairs Darwin Initiative. The Darwin Initiative assists countries that are rich in biodiversity but poor in financial resources to meet their objectives under one or more of the three major biodiversity Conventions: the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD); the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Flora and Fauna (CITES); and the Convention on the Conservation of Migratory Species of Wild Animals (CMS), through the funding of collaborative projects which draw on UK biodiversity expertise.

Funds received include:
2011: £751,000
2010: £935,000
2009: £727,000
2008: £626,000
2007: £510,000

ZSL also receives regular income from the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE), this funds ZSL’s Conservation Science Work. The Higher Education Funding Council for England promotes and funds high quality, cost-effective teaching and research, meeting the diverse needs of students, the economy and society.

Funds received include:
2011: £2,219,000
2010: £2,194,000
2009: £2,151,000
2008: £2,064,000
2007: £2,010,000

20. Has your organization previously applied for ECOSOC consultative status? If yes, please indicate year of previous application
No

21. a) Does your organization already hold accreditation with any organs, funds, programmes or specialized agencies of the United Nations? If so, please specify
Yes,
UN Conference on Sustainable Development
UN Convention on Biological Diversity
UN Framework Convention on Climate Change

21. b) Was your organization's accreditation with any organs, funds, programmes or specialized agencies of the United Nations ever withdrawn or suspended? If so, please specify
Yes,
UN Conference on Sustainable Development
UN Convention on Biological Diversity
UN Framework Convention on Climate Change
